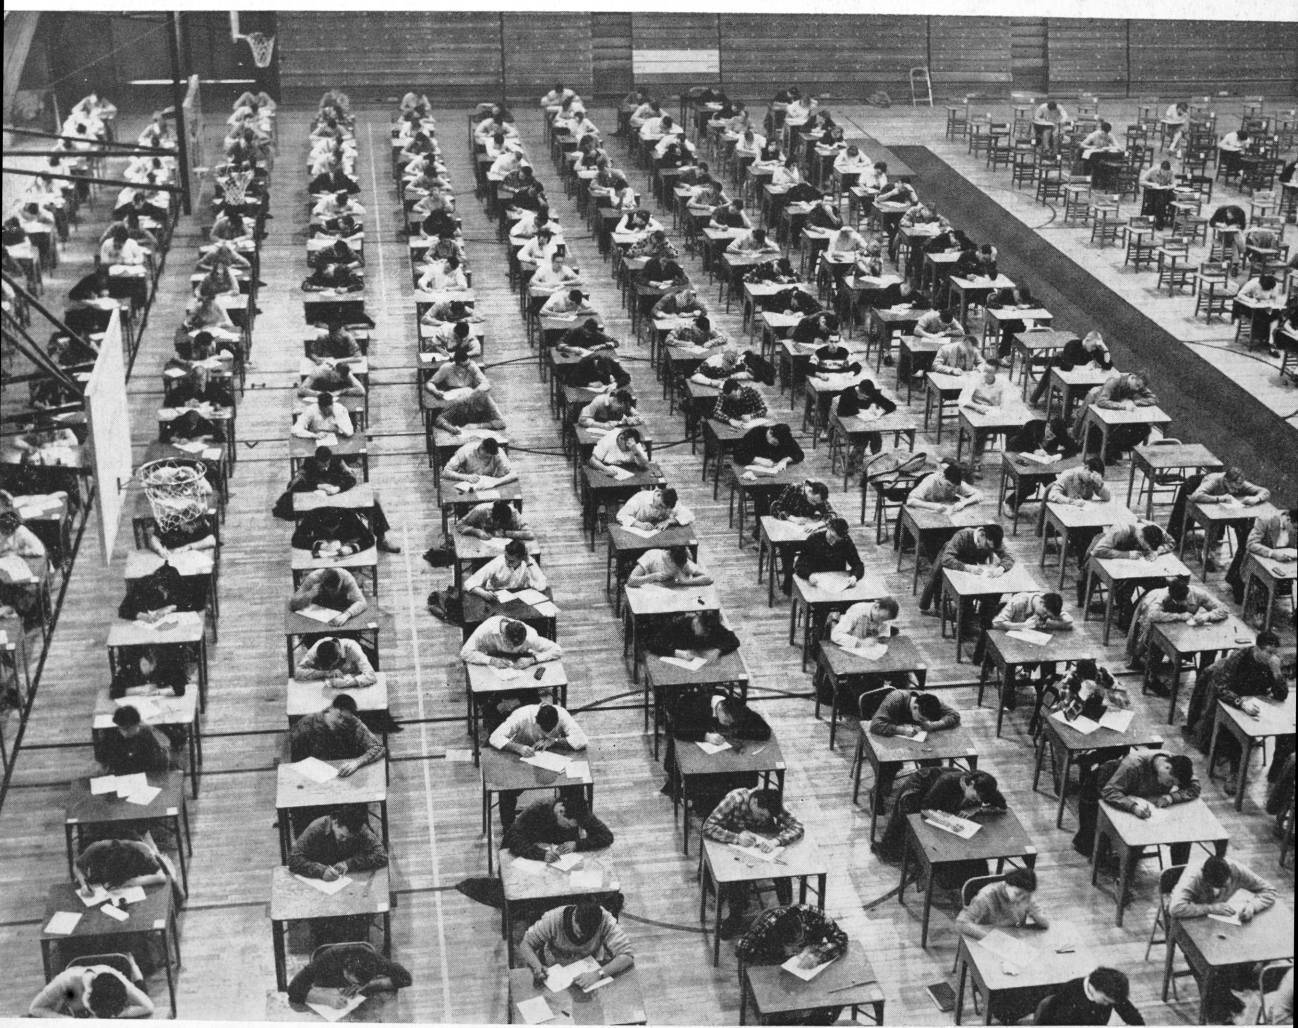
THE MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE

NEWS LETTER

SENT BY THE COLLEGE TO ALL MIDDLEBURY MEN AND WOMEN



Candidates for Alumni, Alumnae Offices . . Page 10
Alumni Look at the College . . . . . Page 12
Alumnae Look at the College . . . . . Page 20

VOLUME XXVII APRIL, 1953 No. 3

Middlebury in the News

Forty-three Years of Faculty Service Ends for Professor Raymond H. White

Professor Raymond H. White, Dean of the Faculty and teacher of classical languages, will become emeritus at the close of the current College year. On July 1st Professor White will assume the rank of Professor Emeritus of Latin.

Professor White joined the Middlebury faculty in 1909 as an instructor in Latin. He holds A.B. and M.A. degrees from Yale where he was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa. He studied in Greece for a year before coming to Middlebury.

He has served under three presidents at Middlebury during his 44 years of service. In 1911 he was named an Assistant Professor of Latin and became a full Professor in 1920. Since 1941 he has been Dean of the Faculty. Besides teaching Greek and Latin he has taught English, Italian, and History.

Mrs. White is a graduate of Middlebury College and taught biology and history at Middlebury high school from 1928 to 1943. She has since served on the school board and is now clerk of the board. The Whites have one son, Allyn, a graduate of Middlebury College and now an industrial physicist with a Cambridge, Mass. firm.

Professor White took two leaves of absence from his teaching duties. During the 1922–23 academic year he and Mrs. White traveled to Italy and Egypt. While in Naples they witnessed the October mass meeting of 90,000 Fascists two days before the March on Rome which brought Mussolini to power.

Raymond H. White

World events caused the Whites to change their plans for a first semester leave in 1939. World War II broke out as they sailed from Canada, and they remained only a week in London amid British preparation for war. They returned to this country and motored throughout the South and West.

United States Must Lead Free World, Say Conference Speakers

A firm belief that the peoples outside the Iron Curtain can achieve unity and understanding was reached at the closing session of the well attended Eleventh Annual Middlebury College Conference on March 22nd. Many reservations and suggestions accompanied this belief, however.

The United States, all speakers agreed, must lead the free world against Communism. Thus, it was this country which came in for criticism and advice from the ten Conference participants.

Moderator George H. McReynolds of the University of Connecticut incorporated into his summary address the principal ideas expressed by his panel colleagues during the two day Conference.

"The United States cannot perform its task of world leadership properly until it learns to consult and enlist the support of every free nation, large or small," said Dr. McReynolds. "there must be a reciprocity of consideration among all the peoples outside the Iron Curtain."

Jan-Albert Goris of Belgium had complained during the session that the United States and the other large free nations were too inclined to brush aside the small allies such as the Benelux nations.

Thomas Yahkub of Goddard College and Dr. T. V. Koo of China expressed their belief that the United States must endeavor to understand the Asians to win their support. Professor Vincent Guilloton of Smith College rejected the notion that Europeans allies must acquiese to every American wish in exchange for economic aid being received.

Colonialism must be abolished everywhere, according to Ernest Kalibala of Africa who flayed European nations for the practice and the United States for its tolerance of the practice. This idea was also sounded by explorer Harrison Forman. Both Mr. Forman and Dr. T. V. Koo of China said that nationalism, not Communism, is the main current of thought in Asia today.

(Continued on page 27)

$6,350 NEEDED TO PUT 1953 ALUMNI FUND DRIVE OVER THE TOP

To date 599 men and 769 women have contributed to the 1953 Alumni Fund Drive. Money raised will be used for scholarships.

Let's have 100 per cent participation in the Alumni Fund Drive with everyone showing an interest in the College by sending in something.

Fund standing as of March 16th:—

Men	$9,193.61
Women	$5,833.28
Parents and Friends	$1,123.00
Total	$16,149.89
Alumni Fund Goal	$22,500.00
Amount received	$16,149.89
Needed	$6,350.11

Your Scholarship Dollars Hold The Key to a Student's Future
MIDDLEBURY

Six Faculty Members Receive Promotions

President Samuel S. Stratton has announced the promotion of six faculty members. Dr. Mischa H. Fayer, Associate Professor of Russian has been raised to the rank of a full Professor. John J. Kelly, '31, Assistant Professor of Physical Education has been elevated to Associate Professor.

Four Instructors have been named Assistant Professors. They are Lockwood Merriman in English, Walter A. Moyer, Jr., in Chemistry, Fernand Marty in French, and Leslie C. Bigelow in Philosophy.

Also announced was the granting of a leave of absence for the 1953–54 academic year to Professor Benjamin F. Wissler, head of the Physics Department. Professor Wissler plans to do advanced study in Physics during his leave of absence next year.

Two other faculty members on leave during the fall resumed teaching when the Spring semester opened. They are Erie C. Volkert, Associate Professor of Drama, and Miss Ida V. Gibson, Associate Professor of Home Economics. Professor Volkert traveled in Europe this past fall, and Miss Gibson did advanced study at the University of Massachusetts. Professor Samuel Guarnaccia, '30, returned from Spain in February where he directed the College's Graduate School in Madrid during the first semester.

Letter To the Editor

The NEWS LETTER is in receipt of the following letter from Professor J. Stuart Prentice:—

Dear Sir:—

This is to correct a piece of misinformation I gave in the last issue of the NEWS LETTER. In my article on "Economics at Middlebury," I remarked that Dr. Howard, who long had been a leading figure on the campus, withdrew in 1913. I had enquired of various persons, and no one seemed to know the reason of the disappearance of his name from the catalogue. A day or two after the article had gone to press I learned that he had died. His departure therefore was not, as I assumed, connected in the least degree with the expansion of Economics offerings in the new administration of Dr. Thomas.

I now have the following intimate thumbnail sketch of Dr. Howard by one of his former students, Mr. Claude H. Carey, of the class of 1909. "Immediately after the class assembled we would discuss the day's assignment. This would continue for a short time, and then Professor Howard would begin to talk about one or more particular phases of the subject, drawing upon his fund of personal experiences, expounding his homely philosophy, wit and humor. As he progressed he would accompany his lecture with those inimitable gestures, such as stroking his long beard, and repeatedly removing his glasses, and putting them on again, the number of times depending on how often he referred to the text. Sometimes he would become deeply moved, from his sincerity and honesty of thought, and I could discern his emotion from his moistened eyes."

I quote the above for the benefit of his former sudents, and as a sidelight on a notable personality of other days of whom we today know too little.

Sincerely,

J. S. Prentice

Middlebury Night at BOSTON POPS

Tuesday, June 9th, 1953

Sponsored by the Boston Middlebury Alumnae
Mrs. Ernest M. Adams,
108 Forest St.,
Wellesley Hills, Mass.
President

Prices—Floor $3.00
Balcony $2.00–$1.00

Tickets may be secured from Miss Jane Dale, Chairman Middlebury Boston Pops Night, 357 Charles St., Boston, Mass.

Please Note . . . .

Alumni of classes between 1925 and 1931 who are not occupied with reunions of their own are invited to join the class of 1928 for the three hour excursion aboard the Ticonderoga on Lake Champlain, Saturday, June 6 between 5 and 8 o'clock. (Price $4.00) Advance reservations are necessary. Write to Storrs Lee, 1928 representative, Dean's Office, Middlebury College.

Middlebury Receives Reader's Digest Grant

The Reader's Digest Foundation will award at Middlebury a $500 scholarship grant next year. The Foundation is initiating a scholarship program for 1953 in addition to the various contributions it already makes to educational activities. Middlebury is one of ten liberal arts colleges with Phi Beta Kappa chapters in the country to benefit from the new program. In each case the student receiving the scholarship must be financially unable to continue his college studies without aid.

Middlebury will establish its own method of selecting the yearly recipient from its student body. The Reader's Digest Foundation specifies that the recipient be judged on personality, leadership, and scholarship, and preferably be one who has worked to earn part of his tuition.

Cover Picture . . .

Preview of "final examation time" which will take place at Middlebury between May 26 and June 4. Photograph on cover shows a section of the student body, puzzling over examination papers on the basketball court in the Memorial Field House where most all the mid-year and final examinations at the College are now given.

Dr. Philip L. Carpenter, '33, Associate Professor of Bacteriology at the University of Rhode Island, represented Middlebury College at the inauguration of Dr. William C. Gaige as President of the Rhode Island College of Education. Inauguration ceremonies were held on March 19th.

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE News Letter

VOL. XXVII APRIL, 1953 No. 3

Published quarterly by Middlebury College for its Alumni and Alumnae

MEMBER OF THE AMERICAN ALUMNI COUNCIL

Cover Photo - T. O. Cannon

GEORGE H. HUBAN, Editor

Entered at the Middlebury, Vt., Post Office as second-class matter

Commencement Program

1953

Friday, June 5

2:00–10:00 p.m. Registration, Starr Library

Saturday, June 6

8:30 a.m.–12:30 p.m. Registration continued, Starr Library

9:30 a.m. Class Day Ceremonies, Lower Campus

10:00 a.m. Trustees' Meeting, Old Chapel

10:30 a.m. Alumnae Association, Pearsons Hall (open meeting)

10:30 a.m. Alumni Council Open Meeting, Middlebury Inn Lounge

12:30 p.m. Reunion Barbecue, Field House

2:15 p.m. "Night Must Fall," by Emlyn Williams. Admission 75c. College Playhouse.

4:00–6:00 p.m. Informal Reception at the President's House, 3 South St.

6:00 p.m. Class Reunion Dinners

8:15 p.m. "Night Must Fall," by Emlyn Williams. Admission 75c, College Playhouse.

Sunday, June 7

10:45 a.m. Baccalaureate Service, Mead Chapel

12:30 p.m. Phi Beta Kappa Dinner, Middlebury Inn

5:00 p.m. Twilight Musicale, Mead Chapel

7:30 p.m. Cane Ceremony, Forest Hall Arcade

Monday, June 8

10:15 a.m. Commencement Procession, Field House

10:30 a.m. Commencement Exercises, Field House

Class Reunion Dinners

Saturday, June 6, 1953 at 6:00 P.M.

Class	Chairmen	Place
1903	Professor Duane L. Robinson 15 Weybridge Street Middlebury, Vermont Mrs. M. S. Gooding 151 Church St. Rutland, Vermont	Methodist Church Dining Room
1908	Rev. Roy D. Wood 311 Melrose Ave. Syracuse 6, New York Miss Jessie Smith 15 Park Street Manchester, Conn.	Gifford Hall
1913	Mr. William F. Pollard 38 Oakland Avenue Needham 92, Mass. Mrs. Moses Hubbard 16 Jordan Road New Hartford, New York	Bristol Inn
1918	Dr. Charles J. Lyon 4 South Balch Street Hanover, New Hampshire Miss Ruth A. Hesselgrave 66 Bradley St. Bridgeport 8, Conn.	Dog Team Tavern
1923	Mr. Cyril E. Shelvey Farm Street Dover, Mass. Mrs. Allen Cline Weybridge Street Middlebury, Vermont	The Adams, Route 7 South, Brandon
1928	Mr. W. Storrs Lee Middlebury College Middlebury, Vermont Mrs. R. H. White Hillcrest Road Middlebury, Vermont	S.S. Ticonderoga
1933	Mr. Boyd Brown 46 Coolidge Road Springfield, Vermont Mrs. F. R. Noyes 17702 Walnut Road Castro Valley, California	Bristol Inn
1938	Mr. Robert M. Matteson 684 Park Avenue New York, N.Y. Mrs. Norman R. Stearns 5 Thomas St. Middlebury, Vt.	Brandon Inn
1943	Mr. Robert J. Adsit, Jr. 22B University Heights Burlington, Vt. Mrs. A. Cutler Silliman 43 B Lattimore Road Rochester 20, New York	Middlebury Inn
1948	Mr. Frank Williamson, Jr. Department of Chemistry University of Wisconsin Madison 6, Wisconsin Mrs. Percy Mack 2293 Hill Road Westfield, New Jersey	Bridport Lodge

Fraternity, Sorority Reunions

Alpha Sigma Psi	Sunday	2:00 p.m.	Delta Upsilon	Sunday	1:00 p.m.
Alpha Tau Omega	Sunday	2:00 p.m.	Kappa Delta Rho	Saturday	3:00 p.m.
Chi Psi	Saturday	3:00 p.m.	Sigma Phi Epsilon	Saturday	4:00 p.m.
Delta Kappa Epsilon	Saturday	2:30 p.m.	Theta Chi	Sunday	1:30 p.m.

(Continued on page 27)

Reminiscing

40 YEARS AGO—

Following committees are appointed for Senior Week: Commencement—Walter B. McGuirk, '13, (died 1944), William E. Greenleaf, '13, Mary T. Archibald, '13, Helen A. Harriman, '13, (died 1930); Class Day—Hendrick W. Van-Ness, '13, Edgar A. Carrier, '13, Charles L. Smiddy, '13, (died 1950), Bessie M. Cudworth, '13, Sarah D. Brown, '13, Edith M. Darrow, '13; Senior Ball—John C. Agnew, '13, Roy H. Walch, '13, Phyllis E. Hopkins, '13. Margaret Sharpe, '13. . . . E. S. Brigham, '03, of St. Albans, Vt. assumes his duties as State Commissioner of Agriculture. . . . The election of Ralph M. Hutchins, '14, as captain of the 1913 football team is ratified. . . .

25 YEARS AGO—

Wig & Pen presents "The Admirable Crichton" with C. P. Young, '28, taking the part of Crichton and Ethel I. Palmer, '28, the part of Lady Mary Lasenby. Raymond Bosworth, '29, P. A. Xanthopoulo, '28, Helen French, '28, and Helen Walter, '29, designed and executed the scenery while Jane E. Carrick, '28, is the costume director assisted by Eloise White, '29. . . . Henry Vail Brooks, '28, is elected chairman of the Senior Cane Committee. . . . Paul Butler, '29, is elected captain of the cross country team for the 1928 season. . . . Paul C. Reed, '29, is the new Student Manager of the Glee Club. . . . Captain Henry Weston, '29, Henry Hunt, '29, Ronald Burrows, '29, and William Donald, '28, represent Middlebury in the Dartmouth Winter Carnival. . . .

10 YEARS AGO—

Students hold first Cultural Conference. Topic: "The Cultural Implications of the War." . . . Laurence D. Gagnier, '43, Albert P. Hadley, '43, Reginald K. Wheeler, '45, and Charlotte H. Johnson, '43, are awarded the Woolsey Bible Prizes. . . . Bobo Sheehan, '44, takes Skimeister Cup at Lake Placid Snow Bird's College Week. . . . Doris A. Orth, '44, is chosen the new president of Student Union with Jean V. Ledden, '44, as Chief Justice; other officers are: Wilma R. Bunce, '45, vice-president, Mary E. Wisotzkey, '45, secretary, and Gertrude Nightingale, '44, treasurer. . . . John E. Gordon, '46, and June M. Archibald, '43, receive Chemistry Prizes for excellence in Chemistry 11 and 12. . . .

COLLEGE CALENDAR*

April
19—Sunday	8:15 p.m.	Concert Lecture Series: Vermont State Symphony Orchestra.
20—Monday		*Alumni Reunion Dinner: Rochester (University Club).
21—Tuesday		*Alumni Reunion Dinner: Buffalo (Hotel Stuyvesant).
22—Wednesday		*Alumni Reunion Dinner: Cleveland (Hotel Allerton).
23—Thursday	7:00 p.m.	Junior Weekend open-Interfraternity Skit Contest at McCullough Gym.
		*Alumni Reunion Dinner: Chicago (Abbott Hall, Chicago Campus of Northwestern University).
24—Friday	9:00 p.m.	Junior Dance.
25—Saturday	1:30 p m.	Tennis: Union at Schenectady.
	1:30 p.m.	Freshman-Sophomore Tug-o-war.
	2:00 p.m.	Baseball: Champlain at Middlebury.
	2:00 p.m.	Track: Quadrangular Meet (Bates, Colby, Vermont, Middlebury) at Lewiston, Maine.
	4:30 p.m.	College Barbecue for all students.
	8:30 p.m.	Variety Show at McCullough Gym.
		*Alumni Reunion Dinner: Detroit (Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel).
26—Sunday	7:00 p.m.	Step-singing.
28—Tuesday		Baseball: R.P.I. at Troy.
29—Wednesday		Baseball: Williams at Williamstown.
May
1—Friday	3:30 p.m.	Track: Williams at Middlebury.
2—Saturday	2:30 p.m.	Tennis: Champlain at Middlebury.
	2:30 p.m.	Baseball: Norwich at Middlebury.
4—Monday		*Alumni Reunion Dinner: Montpelier (Montpelier Tavern).
5—Tuesday	3:30 p.m.	Track: Norwich at Middlebury.
		*Alumni Reunion Dinner: Springfield, Vt. (Norwich Inn, Norwich, Vt.).
6—Wednesday	3:30 p.m.	Tennis: Vermont at Burlington.
		Baseball: Vermont at Middlebury
		*Alumni Reunion Dinner: Concord, N. H. (Millville Inn).
8—Friday	2:30 p.m.	Tennis: Trinity at Middlebury.
	8:15 p.m.	Concert Lecture Series: Charles Laughton.
9—Saturday	2:00 p.m.	Track: Trinity at Hartford.
	2:30 p.m.	Baseball: St. Michael's at Middlebury.
11—Monday		Baseball: Norwich at Northfield.
12—Tuesday	3:30 p.m.	Track: R.P.I. at Middlebury.
		Tennis: R.P.I. at Troy.
13—Wednesday		Baseball: Union at Schenectady.
13, 14, 15—Wednesday, Thursday & Friday	8:15 p.m.	Play: "Night Must Fall" at Playhouse.
14, 15, 16—Thursday, Friday & Saturday		Tennis: New England Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis Association Meet.
16—Saturday		Track: EICAA at Boston University (Nickerson Field).
	1:30 p.m.	Baseball: Clarkson at Middlebury.
18—Monday		Baseball: Champlain at Plattsburg
19—Tuesday	3:00 p.m.	Track: Union at Schenectady.
		Tennis: St. Lawrence at Canton.
		Baseball: St. Michael's at Winooski.
20—Wednesday		Tennis: Clarkson at Potsdam.
	3:30 p.m.	Baseball: St. Lawrence at Middlebury.
22—Friday		Classes End. Reading Period Begins.
		Baseball: Vermont at Burlington.
	2:00 p.m.	Track: NEICAA
	2:30 p.m.	Tennis: Vermont at Middlebury.
23—Saturday		Track: NEICAA.
25—Monday	2.00	Track: State Meet at Burlington.
26—Tuesday		Examinations Begin.
June
4—Thursday		Examinations End.
6—Saturday		Commencement (see Page 4)

*Time and other details about the dinners will be furnished directly by the committee in charge of the reunion.

Spotlight on

The Campus Commentator

REPORTING THE STUDENT SIDE OF MIDDLEBURY NEWS

Scene from "Cuck-a-ca-doo" with cast made up of members of the faculty and their wives. Theme of the musical comedy is a contemporary meeting of the Green Mountain Boys who gather in Catamount Tavern to select a Green Mountain Girl from among the outstanding women of Vermont history. Above are: left to right, Donald Campbell, Frederick Bowman and Henry Prickitt. Jean Berger composed the songs for the musical comedy and W. Storrs Lee wrote the script and lyrics.

Middlebury College's 1952-53 basketball team was the best in 17 years. The Panthers won 13, lost seven, and tied for the state title with St. Michael's. Not since 1935–36 had Middlebury reached state honors. One has to look back to 1928 to find 13 wins for a campaign. The postwar records show no mark above .500 for a season.

Much of the credit must go to Coach Tony Lupien who just finished his second season at Middlebury. A resurgence of basketball came a year ago when freshman ace Sonny Dennis sparked the team with 389 points in 22 games. Dennis followed up this Winter with 368 points in 20 games.

Aid came this year from freshman Tom Hart, a 6-foot-4 star who led small college rebounders much of the year and totalled 259 points. Another factor was junior Jim Hunt who came fast at midseason and scored consistently through to his 27-point performance in the finale with Springfield.

The records show that this season the Panthers won the close games which they lost a year ago when they split their 22 games. The squad had depth, and the first five players are eligible for next year.

Listed among the ten students to receive A.B. degrees at mid-year were: Dorothy O'Neill Cobb, Robert E. Becker, Cyril J. Dennerlein, Richard M. Godfrey, Roderick L. Griffis, Jan B. Luytjes, Donald A. Perry, de-Benneville K. Seeley, Jr., Henrik P. Thommessen, Janet E. Nutt, William S. Frei. Formal commencement ceremonies for these mid-year graduates is in June.

Middlebury retained its Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Association title by defeating Dartmouth and seven other teams at the 22nd annual Middlebury College Winter Carnival. Middlebury's coed skiers continued their dominance by taking their eighth straight Middlebury Carnival trophy.

For Coach Bobo Sheehan's skiers it was the first win over Dartmouth in a four-event meet this winter, and the victory kept the important EISA title at Middlebury for another year. Added to the completely successful Carnival for Middlebury was a 4 to 2 hockey win over the Big Green sextet.

Final point scores in the EISA meet showed Middlebury with 592.51, and Dartmouth second with 577.23. Trailing in order were New Hampshire, 524.11; Williams, 522.98; St. Lawrence, 514.76; Vermont, 502.99; Bowdoin, 459.91; Syracuse, 452.80; and Harvard, 426.86.

Two Middlebury varsity skiers were the Carnival royalty. Betsy Strong, '54, of Hanover, N. H. was Queen and Verne Goodwin, '54, of Pittsfield, Mass. was King, both elected by the student body.

Doreen Elder of McGill won the women's downhill on Thursday afternoon with Betsy Strong second. Ann Shaw of Vermont won the Friday slalom but the Misses Strong, Sally Dickerman, Judy Kirby, and Lucille Withington finished high to clinch the event for Middlebury. Miss Elder was best skier of the meet.

Dartmouth got off to a good start in the EISA meet on Friday morning by placing the top three finishers in the downhill to score 100 points. Bill Tibbits won, Ralph Miller was second, and Brooks Dodge was third.

Middlebury came back in the afternoon as Ceddie Sherrer won the cross country race and Verne Goodwin took fourth spot. After Friday's events Middlebury led the Big Green by two hundredths of a point. The Panthers gained momentum on Saturday morning to win the slalom race over a 30-gate course set by Fred Neuberger and forerun by Guttorm Berge. Doug Burden won the event, Gale Shaw was second, and Verne Goodwin third to bring Middlebury 100 points for the event.

The second slalom run was held in steady rainfall which turned into a torrent as the event ended. As fog and heavy rain continued, judges and coaches conferred and postponed the jumping until Sunday morning. Middlebury had expanded its lead over Dartmouth to five points going into the jump.

About 200 Middlebury students began at 7:00 Sunday morning to pack snow onto the washed-out 50 meter jumping hill. It was afternoon before the first official jump was made, but except for gusts of wind the conditions were excellent.

Dartmouth was conceded the jumping by most qualified observers, but many felt that Middlebury could hold its own in the jump and squeeze out a meet victory. Instead the Middlebury skiers won the jumping by taking first, third, fourth, and fifth places. Gordie Ulmer of Brattleboro won with leaps of 156 and 157 feet. Ralph Miller was second, Dick Ireland third, Verne Goodwin fourth, and Les Streeter fifth. Goodwin had the day's longest leap—164 feet.

Four of Middlebury's skiers competed in their last Middlebury Carnival. For three years Verne Goodwin, Dick Ireland, Gale Shaw, and Ceddie Sherrer have formed an outstanding quartet of racers to keep Middlebury high in the collegiate skiing world.

Middlebury will play a 13-game baseball schedule this spring. The Panthers will open at home with Champlain on Apr. 25 and will meet state rivals Vermont, St. Michael's and Norwich twice each. Six are home games slated for Porter Field. Bobo Sheehan again will coach the team.

The schedule: Apr. 25, Champlain home; Apr. 28, R.P.I. away; Apr. 29, Williams away; May 2, Norwich home; May 6, Vermont home; May 9, St. Michael's home; May 11, Norwich away; May 13, Union away; May 16, Clarkson home; May 18, Champlain away; May 19, St. Michael's away; May 20, St. Lawrence home; and May 22, Vermont away.

Robert LeCours, '53 and Marjorie McCallum, '53 have been awarded Variety Show scholarships of $100. each. The scholarships presented for the first time this year, were made possible by the profits from the annual Variety Show. They are awarded to a senior man or woman on the basis of need, scholarship and contribution to the College.

Alan Entine, '56, won first prize of $30. and Elizabeth Mitchell, '56, received second prize of $20. in the 1953 Freshman Parker Public Speaking Contest. . . . The Fine Arts department has been given two pictures, Paul David Holleman's "The City" which is a ceramic mosaic and Diran Dohanian's "In the Garden," a serigraph. The works were selected by Stephen Jacobs, assistant professor of Fine Arts, and were made possible through the purchase fund of the Boston Society of Independent Artists.

Middlebury is one of 175 institutions joining in a study of College Student Mortality conducted by the Office of Education of the Federal Security Agency. Associate Professor Donald Ballou has been placed in charge of supplying the national office with statistics and other information concerning the number of students who have dropped out of college during a given period, whether they continued their education at another college, and why they left Middlebury. The study is expected to take about two years to complete.

"Ballads Migrant in New England" is the title of a book to be published this spring by Farrar, Straus, and Young and authored by Helen Hartness Flanders, HD 1942, and Marguerite Olney, founder and curator respectively of the Flanders Ballad Collection at Middlebury. The book will contain 96 ballads taken from the Flanders' collection of over 8000 now housed in Carr Hall on campus.

George D. Phinney, '37, was recently named professional at the Middlebury College golf course. Phinney was for 23 years associated with the Woods Hole golf club on Cape Cod, eleven of these as professional. Last summer he was professional at the Coonamessett golf club in Falmouth, Mass. He is co-holder of the course record at Woods Hole. While at Middlebury, he starred in hockey, baseball, and golf. Since 1939 he has taught at the Middlebury High School.

Among the 840 graduates of the Newport Navy Officer Candidate School recently were two Middlebury graduates, John Zeiller '51 and Robert Martin '52. John Zeiller was a Sociology major at Middlebury and he makes his home in Westfield, N. J. Bob Martin calls Crown Point, N. Y. home and he was an Economics major at Middlebury.

The musical talents of the College freshman choir and the College Players, and the Vermont State Symphony combined in an operatic presentation of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" on Sunday evening, March 15. Professor H. Ward Bedford directed the 35-member orchestra and the 80-voice choir in this moving oratorio which is not usually staged in operatic form. Dramatic portions of the production were directed by Professor Erie T. Volkert. Five Middlebury students and one graduate had singing roles in "Elijah."

Scholarship aid amounting to 4,000 dollars annually from the Agnes Lindsay Trust fund will be divided equally between members of the men's and women's freshman classes according to an announcement by President Samuel Stratton.

The money, which will be awarded on the same basis as regular college scholarships, was given to the college with no stipulation except that it go for scholarships.

Irving Morris '53, President of Blue Key, has announced that the Blue Key Scholarship has been awarded to Marino Bramante '55.

The grant offers one hundred dollars to a worthy undergraduate of the men's college. Character and scholarship are the basis for judging the recipient.

Bramante is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity where he is steward. He resides in Northvale, New Jersey. Bramante was recently accepted at the University of Pennsylvania School of Dentistry.

The Blue Key will make a similar award during the spring term.

Coach Duke Nelson's varsity hockey team experienced a successful season with a record of ten wins and six losses. The Panthers scored 89 goals to 49 of their opponents. Middlebury defeated Army, Dartmouth, Norwich, Springfield, Amherst, Williams, New Hampshire, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Hamilton twice. In a two game series with Dartmouth, the Indians defeated Middlebury in the first game, but the Panthers handed Dartmouth a decided loss during their Winter Carnival in February.

Doug Binning, '54, outstanding defenseman on the team was named to the 1953 All-American hockey team bringing a coveted national honor to Middlebury. Doug was also named to captain the 1954 team. A resident of Mount Royal, Quebec, Canada, he scored eleven goals and had sixteen assists for 27 points during the past season.

*Alumni in the Headlines

Far Away Places—his business sites—are traced by Roderick J. Hemphill, '43, home from his job as plantation manager in Thailand.

After carrying the white man's burden in distant Thailand for almost two years, Roderick J. Hemphill, '43, recently returned to his Westerly, R. I. home, unbleached, unyellowed and looking anything but the traditional picture of an Asiatic empire builder.

He looked in fact as if he had just returned from the corner drug store carrying nothing heavier than a tube of toothpaste. To Mr. Hemphill, son of Russell E. Hemphill, '16, who firmly believes that "people are basically the same," the life of a Sahib hasn't been arduous.

Superficially it sounds as if it should be, for the silk plantation at Nongkhai where Mr. Hemphill has spent the past twenty months is deep in the Thai hinterland, a full three hundred miles from the cosmopolitan capital of Bangkok, fifty miles from the nearest railroad and thirty miles from the nearest Caucasian neighbor.

A jeep, a bicycle, and the broad waters of the Mekong River are the 31-year-old planter's only transportation, and Thai Plays, Thai parties, and Thai people are the only convenient sources of entertainment.

"But people," Mr. Hemphill repeats, "are basically the same wherever you go.

"If I tried to maintain myself as a foreigner in the village, I'd be miserable, as I was for the first three months. If I tried to rush the Thais into Western production methods, I'd go crazy in two weeks.

"The only thing to do is to try to adapt yourself to the people and culture around you. I've made a good start there in two years."

The secret of Mr. Hemphill's unbowed shoulders probably lies in the fact that he checked the white man's burden of racial supremacy and social standing as surplus baggage when he arrived in Thailand. He then went native in a fashion which might have shocked Kipling but which sounds both reasonable and respectable when he explains it.

The process started in Bangkok where Mr. Hemphill, a former student of Oriental languages, began his Far Eastern tour with a four-month study of spoken Thai. ("After two years I can make myself understood now.") It speeded up when he arrived at Nongkhai to set up a silk plantation capable of meeting growing demands by American buyers for the silk fabrics exported by his company.

Mr. Hemphill recalls with regret the first three months at his outpost, when the barriers of language and social status left him an unwilling pukka sahib, dependent on books and Western movies for his chief entertainment.

Then the barriers began to drop. Perhaps the loan of his jeep to carry Buddhist priests in a religious festival was partly responsible. Mr. Hemphill, however, ascribes his gradual entry into native social circles to the good qualities of the Thai people themselves.

"They're naturally democratic," he says. "There's no history of colonialism in Thailand to breed resentment. And, like most Asiatics, they're happy to befriend any one who takes the trouble to understand and respect their culture."

Mr. Hemphill was well equipped for such understanding by two years of graduate study in Oriental languages at Yale and by service with the Army in Japan. The results, which came in the form of gradual comprehension of native plays composed centuries earlier, of a continuous round of festivals, religious and secular, and of fishing and boating trips down the Mekong, were, he considers, more than worth while.

Even at home he can face his return to Nongkhai this spring with the conviction that "there are a lot of worse places a man could be."

There are times, he admits, when even an adaptable Westerner like himself finds his adaptability strained. Then he

(Continued on Page 9)

*Alumni are invited to contribute material for publication in Alumni in the Headlines.

ARNOLD R. LA FORCE, '35

Arnold R. La Force, '35, has been appointed Second Vice President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company with broad responsibilities in the supervision of the company's investments in securities.

Before going with the Metropolitan, Mr. La Force was an investment analyst with the New York Stock Exchange firm of Granbery, Marache & Lord, and at one time was Professor of Finance and Investments at New York University. He joined the Metropolitan (in September 1942) as a security analyst, and has been an officer of the company since 1948.

Mr. La Force has gained recognition as a writer of authority in his field. He is the author of Financial Handbook (with Jules J. Bogen), and of Problems of Corporate Finance (with Professor Lloyd E. Dewey), and has been a lecturer on finance and investment at New York University.

He finds his recreation at gardening, and at tennis and badminton. He was New Jersey state doubles tennis champion in 1945. He is a member of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity, and of the Morristown Field Club.

Mr. La Force is married to the former Miss Isobel Drummond, of Hillside, N. J., and they have one child, Susanne. They reside at Kennedy Road, Mendham, New Jersey.

RODERICK J. HEMPHILL, '43

(Continued from Page 8)

says the only thing to do is grit your teeth and practice humility. Usually he finds it easy.

"I still remember one day when I went out to the plantation with a long list of things to be done that day," he recalls. "There was no one there, not a soul. I circled the field for an hour looking for a worker, just one, and finally found an old lady, too feeble to travel who'd been left behind.

"I asked her what had happened, and she said one of the workers was getting married thirty miles away. Everyone had gone to the wedding without thinking twice. Time doesn't matter much to the Thais."

What can you do in a situation like that? Mr. Hemphill faced the problem and solved it without reflection.

"I put the old lady in my jeep," he says calmly. "Then we both went to the wedding."

Editor's Note:—The News Letter thanks the Providence Journal for the picture of Roderick J. Hemphill (Page 8). Copy for this article was written by Sherwood E. Dickerman of the Journal.

WM. W. MONTGOMERY, '45

Dr. William W. Montgomery, '45, was recently presented the Bronze Star Medal by Rear Admiral John L. McCrea, Commandant of the First Naval District, for heroic aid under fire to men of an Army Artillery Battery in Korea.

The 29-year old veteran of army service in World War II recently completed a tour of duty as a lieutenant (jg) in the Naval Reserve, serving with a Marine artillery regiment. He was wounded in action and awarded the Purple Heart with combat "V" in Korea.

Dr. Montgomery is now residing at 339 Central Ave., Needham, Mass., and studying at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston.

HOWARD S. CADY, '36

Howard S. Cady, '36, has joined Little, Brown & Company as Editor-in-Chief. Mr. Cady was Doubleday's West Coast representative since 1946 when he opened that company's office in San Francisco. Mr. Cady began his career in publishing in 1937 when he joined the editorial department of Macmillan. In May of 1941, he left Macmillan to become managing editor of the Stephen Daye Press. He joined Doubleday as an editor in October of the following year, but left the firm shortly thereafter to serve with the OSS in London and Paris. On returning from overseas duty in March of 1945, Mr. Cady served in the director's office of OSS in Washington. He returned to Doubleday in 1946.

MARGARET C. WILLIAMS, '32

Mrs. Robert G. Williams (Margaret E. Clewley, '32) was chairman of a Scholarship Bridge held recently in Hartford, Conn., by the Middlebury Alumnae Club of Hartford.

The proceeds of the bridge party will provide a scholarship, raised annually by this Alumnae group for a girl from the Greater Hartford Area who is either a present or prospective Middlebury student. The scholarship is awarded by a special committee which will make selection from applications received during the current scholastic year.

This year particular emphasis is being placed on recruiting additional support for the Scholarship Fund Drive, so that a larger scholarship than previously offered may go to a deserving Middlebury woman student from Connecticut. It is hoped to increase the fund by half again its former amount. More than 200 attended the bridge.

CLARIBEL N. SPAMER, '38

The March issue of THE INSTRUCTOR contains two contributions by Mrs. Claribel Nothnagle Spamer (Mrs. Velmore B. Spamer). Mrs. Spamer is the author of a play, "The Prim Pussycat," and a factual story, "Betty's Strange Trip."

Mrs. Spamer has contributed to many parents', children's, and teachers' magazines and she is the author of a book of plays, "Easy Plays for Early School Years," which was published by the W. H. Baker Co. Formerly a teacher in the high school at Stratford, Conn., she now teaches creative writing in night school classes. Her home address is 121 Huntington Road, Stratford, Conn.

Please Vote!

Candidates for Alumni, Alumnae Offices

THE Alumni of Middlebury will elect a National President and District Presidents for the Albany, Connecticut, and New York Districts in a ballot that will be conducted through the mail this spring. PLEASE VOTE! The three retiring District Presidents, Melvin C. Livingston, '25, Lester Q. Stewart, '26, and J. Calvin Affleck, '31, automatically become candidates for the National Presidency. Richard H. Caswell, '48, and Robert N. Andersen, '49, are candidates in the Albany District; Richard Rapport, '25, and Earl A. Samson, '26, are candidates in the Connecticut District; and Philander Bates, '31, and Henry T. Emmons, '35, are candidates in the New York District. Raymond S. Noonan, '21, and H. Joseph Swezey, '15, are candidates for membership on the Board of Trustees of the College to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration in June of the five-year term of John A. Arnold, '13.

Concurrent with the election of Alumni Officers, the Alumnae of the College will also conduct an election this spring by mail. Candidates for Vice President for a two-year term are Elizabeth C. Cook, '40, and Barbara Browning Hunter (Mrs. J. Allan), '23, while the candidates for Delegate-at-Large for a two year term are Dorothee Bellerose Bean (Mrs. Harold M.), '26, and Ingrid Monk Stevenson (Mrs. William), '44.

RAYMOND S. NOONAN, born in Panton, Vt. Nov. 24, 1898. Prepared for college in Mastern Park High School, Buffalo, N. Y. B.S. Middlebury 1921. Assistant to City Manager, Ocala, Florida 1925–27. Chief Engineer and Field Superintendent, Convention Hall, Atlantic City. General Superintendent for Construction Corporation, York, Pennsylvania. Entered business 1935—President, R. S. Noonan, Inc., General Contractors, York, Pennsylvania. Past President: University Club of York, Contractors' Association of York, and Keystone Building Contractors' Association of Harrisburg, Pa. President Elect:—Pennsylvania State Council of Building Contractors, and Lafayette Club of York.

H. JOSEPH SWEZEY, born in Patchogue, N. Y., January 28, 1895. Prepared for college in Patchogue High School. B.S. Middlebury 1915. Student of Chemistry, Harvard University, 1915–16. Chemist with Holland Aniline Co., Chicago, Ill., 1916–1917. Ensign, U. S. Naval Reserve 1917–1919. With E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company of Wilmington, Delaware, 1919—. Currently, Director of Sales, Export Division of Organic Chemicals Department and Vice President and Director of Du Pont (China), Inc. Member of Board of Directors of Far East-America Council of Commerce and Industry, Inc.

MELVIN C. LIVINGSTON, born in Fayston, Vermont, February 21, 1904. Prepared for college in Waitsfield High School, Waitsfield, Vermont. B.S. Middlebury 1925. M.A. Columbia University, 1932. Studied at Albany State Teachers College and Cornell University. Supervising Principal, Valley Falls, N. Y., 1926–28, Peru, N. Y., 1928–1933, and at Schroon Lake, N. Y., 1933–1942. Superintendent of Schools, Mechanicville, N. Y., 1942—. President of Albany District of Associated Alumni, 1950–1953.

J. CALVIN AFFLECK, born in Rome, New York, March 24, 1909. Prepared for college in Lyman Hall High School, Wallingford, Connecticut. B. S. Middlebury 1931. Advertising Manager of H. L. Judd Company, New York, 1931–1934. Commercial Representative and Key Branch Manager, Western Union Telegraph Company, New York, 1934–1940. Advertising Manager and Assistant to the General Sales Manager, Eisemann Magneto Corporation, New York, 1940–1942. Lieutenant Commander, U. S. Naval Reserve, World War II, 1942–1946 Advertising and Sales Promotion Manager, Radiomarine Corporation of America, a subsidiary of RCA, New York, 1946–1950. Member of Radio Corporation of America's Advertising and Publicity Committee and Trade Mark Committee. National Advertising and Sales Promotion Manager, Television Receiver Division, Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories, Inc., East Paterson, New Jersey. Member of Du Mont Trade Mark Committee. Chairman of Radio and Television Section of Radio and Television Manufacturers' Educational Equipment Committee. Member of Radio and Television Manufacturers' Public Relations and Advertising Committee. President of New York-New Jersey Alumni Association, 1950–1953.

LESTER Q. STEWART, born in Camden, New Jersey, October 25, 1902. Prepared for college in Camden High School, Camden, N. J. B.S. Middlebury 1926. M.D. Yale Medical School, 1933. Physician and Surgeon, West Hartford, Conn., 1934–1942. Major, 82nd Airborne Division, U. S. Army, 1942–1946. Assistant Medical Director, Aetna Life Insurance Company, 1946—. Author of several articles on neurological surgery. President of Connecticut District of Associated Alumni, 1950–1953.

EARL A. SAMSON, born in Waterbury, Connecticut, February 26, 1904. Prepared for college in Crosby High School, Waterbury, Conn., and Vermont Academy, Saxtons River, Vermont. B.S. Middlebury, 1926. Sales Manager, Chase Brass and Copper Company, Waterbury, Conn., 1926—.

ROBERT N. ANDERSEN, born in Lansingburgh (Troy), New York, August 12, 1921. Prepared for college in Lansingburgh High School, Troy. A.B. Middlebury, Feb. 1949. Graduate Study, New York State College for Teachers, Albany, N. Y. Teacher and Head of Social Studies Department, Voorheesville Central School, Voorheesville, New York. Member of New York State Teachers' Association, New York State Council for Social Studies, and Capital District Council for Social Studies.

RICHARD H. CASWELL, born in Middlebury, Vermont, May 25, 1923. Prepared for college in Middlebury High School, Middlebury, Vt. A.B. Middlebury 1948. M.E., University of Vermont, 1951. Teacher of Social Studies and Coach, Bristol High School, 1948–1950. Teacher of Social Studies, Bennington High School, 1951—.

RICHARD RAPPORT, born in Hartford, Conn., November 1, 1902. Prepared for college in Hartford Public High School. B.S. Middlebury 1925. State of Connecticut Banking Department, 1926–1951. Executive Manager of the Connecticut Bankers Association, 1951—. Connecticut State Bank Commissioner 1943–1951. President, National Association of Supervisors of State Banks, 1947–1948. Faculty, Graduate School of Banking, Rutgers University, 1948–1951.

PHILANDER BATES,* born in Cohasset, Mass., January 31, 1909. Prepared for college in Cohasset High and Huntington School. B.S. Middlebury, 1931. Graduate study at Harvard Business School. Field Sales Manager, S. D. Warren Company, New York, 1938—. Lieutenant, U.S.N.R., Bureau of Naval Personnel, 1943–1946.

*Picture of Mr. Bates not available at time NEWS LETTER was going to press.

HENRY T. EMMONS, born in Brookline, Mass., July 27, 1912. Prepared for college in Haverhill High School, Haverhill, Mass. A.B. Middlebury 1935. M.B.A., Graduate School of Business Administration, New York University, 1952. National Traveling Secretary, Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, 1935–1936. Associate Director of Admissions and Personnel, Middlebury College, 1936–1939. Secretary of Admissions, Babson Institute of Business Administration, 1939–1941. Assistant to Director of New Products, Lederle Laboratories, American Cyanamid Company, 1942. Naval Personnel Officer, Naval Command, Office of Strategic Services, 1942–1946. Personnel Administrative work with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 1946—. Lieutenant Commander, U. S. Naval Reserve 1948—. Secretary, Personnel Administrators, New York University, 1952—. Member of New York City Naval Reserve Industrial Relations Unit; Naval Order of the United States, New York Commandery; and National Travel Club.

BARBARA BROWNING HUNTER (Mrs. J. Allan), Longmeadow, Mass. A.B. Middlebury 1923. Previously active in Girl Scouting, Red Cross Motor Corps. Currently active in church work. Daughters, Patricia, a freshman at Middlebury, and Joan Hunter (Kent) '51. Member Alumnae Assoc. Nominating Committee, 1948–51, Chairman 1951, Alumnae Council, 1947, 1948, 1949, 1950, 1951. Province President, Sigma Kappa.

INGRID MONK STEVENSON (Mrs. William), Natick, Mass. A.B. Middlebury, 1944. Assistant Research Technician, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1945–46. Two sons, Philip and Jeffrey, and a daughter, Constance. Vice-President, Boston Alumnae Association, 1946–47; currently on Membership Committee. Phi Mu.

ELIZABETH C. COOK, New York, New York. A.B. Middlebury, 1940. Graduate work in nutrition at Columbia. Dietetic interneship, Boston, 1940–41. Assistant dietitian, Wellesley College, 1941–42. Dietitian, Federal Land Bank Cafeteria, Springfield, Mass., 1942–46. Dietitian with American Airlines, La Guardia Field, 1946–47. Assistant to the Manager, Institutional Sales Service, Standard Brands, Inc., 1947–50. Sales Promotion and Consumer Service Department, Armour and Company, under name of "Marie Gifford," 1950—. Member, American Dietetics Assoc., New York Dietetic Assoc., American Home Economics Assoc., Home Economics in Business. Member, New York-New Jersey Alumnae Assoc. Alpha Xi Delta.

DOROTHY BELLEROSE BEANE (Mrs. Harold M.), Rutland, Vermont. B.A. Middlebury 1926. Master's Degree in Social Service, Smith, 1927. Social work in Vermont, 1928–30. Teacher Rutland High School, 1931–36, 1943; Rutland Hospital Training School, 1935–48. Director of Student Nurse Activities, Rutland Hospital, 1948; Director of Patient Admissions, 1949–50. Psychometric testing in Rutland Public Schools, Rutland Hospital Training School, Brandon State School. Member, Board of Trustees, Rutland Free Library, 1943–50; Board of Trustees, Visiting Nurse Assoc., 1952–54. Member, Grey Ladies. Daughter, Julie. Member, Alumnae Council, 1947. Delta Delta Delta.

Middlebury Women Earned $73,573 In Summer Work

A total of $73,573 was earned last summer by 289 women students at Middlebury, according to statistics completed by the College. The group surveyed represents about 80% of the three upper classes, and average earnings were $254.

The College compiled this data to determine the extent to which Middlebury women help pay their way through college. This information will be of interest to the Alumni and Alumnae contributing to the Annual Alumni Fund Drive for scholarships.

Waitresses were in the majority among the coeds surveyed, with an average income of $345.45. Camp counselor was the second favorite occupation, and this group averaged $119.40 for the summer. Room and board, it was noted, usually goes with a counseling job. Secretarial work ranked third in numbers employed, and $328 was the average wage earned.

Among the more lucrative single positions was that of a girl who earned $650 as a statistician. Another made $540 as a bond issue investigator, and one earned $525 as a chambermaid. Some of the occupations listed were lifeguard, movie cashier, laboratory assistant, soda clerk, draftswoman, cartographer, sailing and swimming instructor, cook, dishwasher, foodpacker, and housekeeper.

The Alumni Look at the College

Members of the Alumni Council were given the opportunity by the News Letter to take a "Look at the College" and to express their views as to enrollment, curriculum, building needs, et cetera. The response was excellent as fifty Council members replied offering thoughts and suggestions that merit consideration by all members of the Middlebury family.

Forty of the fifty members said that they favored the present enrollment of the College and the majority of the Council favor keeping the present undergraduate ratio of men and women. There are 700 men and 506 women enrolled for the 1952–53 academic year at Middlebury.

Council members were unanimous in their feelings that Middlebury College should be kept a "good" Liberal Arts college with certain courses offered that will give students a more favorable opportunity for earning a livelihood in the business world when they complete their formal education. Nineteen members favored the addition of strong Business Administration courses, while two Council members objected to the thought of additional business courses being added to the Middlebury curriculum. All members participating in the "Look at the College" felt that Middlebury in considering the adding of new courses should remember to keep the College a true Liberal Arts institution. Many members felt that the Science curriculum should be strengthened and better Vocational Guidance be given to students.

In the matter of the College's physical plant, better library facilities received the warm endorsement of twenty-four members who felt that the Egbert Starr Library should be increased in size in order to take care of the present library needs of the College. "Middlebury today," said one member, "is providing about the same library facilities as she did fifteen years ago when the enrollment of the College was about half its present size."

Eighteen Council members felt that the College needs more dormitory facilities so as to provide suitable student housing necessary to meet the present post-war enrollment of Middlebury and at the same time help to attract qualified students to the College. Adequate facilities for the teaching of the Science courses was third on the Alumni Council list of the needs of the College. Two Council members pointed out the need of higher faculty salaries in order to attract better men to Middlebury for the purpose of strengthening the Departments of the College.

The majority of Council members participating in the "Look at the College" felt that artificial ice facilities and a swimming pool would be "very nice" additions to the College, but that they were not necessary for the good Liberal Arts reputation of the College. And that neither artificial ice nor a swimming pool should be obtained at the expense of the library, dormitory, or science facilities.

Members recognized the expense to the College of some of their suggestions and realized that the College would need additional funds to carry out expansions in library, dormitory, and science facilities.

The sound financial policy that Middlebury's trustees have pursued through the years compares very favorably with outstanding collegiate institutions, is the thought of the Council. The financial policy of the College during the past ten years received the commendation of one member who expressed pleasure for the way the Middlebury plant has been maintained and the renovation of Starr Hall without a special fund drive being made for this purpose.

Worry was expressed by some members as to the effect of today's high cost education and Middlebury's limited scholarship funds in relation to drawing needy students of superior character from the more stable homes of middle class people. Hope was expressed by these Council members that the Alumni Fund would help to eventually eliminate this problem as the Alumni of the College acquired the habit of giving annually to the College.

Alumni interest was expressed about the "apparent trend in the direction of 'Alcoholic-centered social life' developing in many of the colleges of the nation today." "I realize," said one very loyal Alumni supporter and benefactor of the College, "that there is a national trend in that direction, greatly aided and abetted by a most costly advertising campaign, calculated to make millions of new liquor drinkers and anyone without a well-stocked bar or 'cellar' look like a sissy, a sap, or a piker. The recent mention of cocktail parties, beer busts and whiskey-spur parties, etc., in the fraternity houses—the 'dedications' of bars in frat houses, etc., all seem to indicate a trend that bodes no good. There are a few colleges that are still trying to hold the line and discourage this trend. I hope that Middlebury will be one of these colleges."

Space limitations forbids the publishing in the NEWS LETTER of complete remarks of Council members participating in the "Look at the College." Following are excerpts from the remarks of members. It is the feeling of the NEWS LETTER that the following statements give an excellent representative general feeling of the Council.

GORDON E. WILEY, '27 (National President): " . . . I do not for a moment, consider that my election as National President qualifies me to speak with authority on matters pertaining to education, but it does appear to me that the alleged threat of specialization to the Liberal Arts college is a threat only so long as our educators fail to recognize its implication, and that it is something to take advantage of and not to resist. Truly, the ever increasing recognition even by the 'specialty' colleges that the liberal arts background is an absolute necessity for a well-rounded person as exemplified by the contemporary thinking that five to six years' college work are required for an engineering degree, etc., should work to the advantages of colleges like ours. Middlebury administrators were most prophetic when they adopted the M.I.T. Plan. The development of other plans of this nature must go forward on a broad scale.

"In addition to the further development of affiliated plans, we must recognize the changing emphasis on curricular subjects. Perhaps this can be accomplished by a re-grouping of the subjects under appropriate titles, such as Pre-Engineering, Pre-Medical, Pre-Business Administration, etc., with slight, if any, actual change in the subject matter taught and without jeopardizing our adherence to basic philosophy and objectives of a true Liberal Arts College.

"Again, facing the realities of today, we must recognize that any product, whether it be a philosophy of education or a new soap product regardless of how good it is, must be publicized before people will recognize its true worth. Consequently, I suggest that plans be developed and executed by a group or groups of colleges with common objectives to use all modern means to put before the public the many advantages of the small Liberal Arts college, with particular emphasis on information as to its place in the present world of specialization. This would be of inestimable help to the many loyal Alumni and Alumnae who strive so diligently to encourage the better prospects to matriculate at Middlebury. . . ."

DR. LUCRETIUS ROSS, '90: ". . . . Maintain present enrollment . . . . Both Business and Science should be given to some extent more than at present. . . ."

CHARLES A. ADAMS, '95: ". . . . The ideal Middlebury is a small college. The greater the enrollment, the greater the demand and need for more scholarship aid, more classroom space, new dormitories—not to mention an occasional gadget. . . . It is true that the demand for more science—for courses to help one planning to go into Business—is increasing but Middlbury is a Liberal Arts College which should give a broad foundation of culture and educate for the broader satisfactions of life outside of a Vocation. . . . The Administration knows what buildings we need most. . . ."

FRANK W. CADY, '98: ". . . . I have taken the growth of the college so much for granted during the years that I find little to say except in praise of its progress. Personally I feel that the present ratio of enrollment of men and women is right. It has always been the tradition to keep the number of women a little below that of the men. . . . As far as curriculum is concerned, I am in favor of stronger courses in Business Administration as so many graduates these days go into business, but I think there should be great caution in increasing the Science courses to see that the humanities are not curtailed. . . ."

DR. HERMAN E. HASSELTINE, '02: ". . . . Would like to see more scientific courses offered. When my nephew was trying to get into the Army Air Corps as a meteorologist, he met with the following statement: 'Middlebury is excellent in languages but weak in Science'. . . ."

DUANE L. ROBINSON, '03: ". . . . If we are to remain a small Liberal Arts College which is what our good reputation is based on, I feel that we should go very slowly in adding new courses to our curriculum. In fact what we need more, in my judgement, is sufficient addition to our teaching staff so that certain courses not now available to all students because of numbers of students may be open. . . . We are greatly in need of added library space, both for books and those who consult them. Also our library has been classed by experts as being inconvenient with incomplete and obsolete equipment. Books are scattered in many buildings on campus and in some cases practically inaccessible. . . . A large women's dormitory is badly needed and the resultant doing away with the various wooden firetraps on the Upper Campus and Weybridge House and Porter House. I am told that the Chemistry dep't is in great need of more laboratory and lecture facilities, some of its work being curtailed through lack of these. An artificial ice rink would be fine if it could be donated and endowed. I do not believe that college funds at present warrant the expense of such construction. . . . I believe that what we need above all is a salary basis which will attract men of ability to our staff—men who will give Middlebury the love and devoted service which it has had from so many of its past teachers. . . ."

LEROY F. HOVEY, '04: ". . . . In the curriculums of colleges today it seems to me that the featuring of undergraduate Business Administration courses is being overdone. . . ."

HAROLD R. BIRD, '06: ". . . . A good Business Administration course would be eminently satisfactory, with a complementary study of the value of private enterprise as opposed to too much government control and of the value of real Americanism as against the many 'isms' of the past few years. . . ."

ROY D. WOOD, '08: ". . . . As to enrollment, I think the present ratio of men and women is right. I suggest Business Administration Course, and one or two more intensive Bible study courses. I fail to see the need of a larger library, although this would be good; but I think another men's dormitory and an artificial ice rink would be wonderful. Bread Loaf is such a splendid addition to the college, and I boast of Midd's extensive campus; but why not a little more dormitory space? . . . "

IVAN D. HAGAR, '09: ". . . . I would like to see more Science courses, such as an expanded Department of Chemistry with more of the courses varied and advanced than at present. Also, the establishment of engineering courses would improve the curriculum. . . ."

AMERIGO J. RATTI, '11: ". . . . A large number of men eventually find themselves in business and their studies at Middlebury should offer them preparation for earning a livelihood in business. In my own case I had to learn the hard way. Science is the coming field of the future, but I fear that Middlebury does not have nor can afford the facilities necessary to give the complete type of training that the field of Sciences require. . . ."

WILLIAM F. POLLARD, '13: ". . . . I sincerely hope the enrollment will not exceed 1200. Personally I think that a 50–50 ratio of men and women would be fair to all. Incidentally such a ratio would help take some pressure off the Director of Admissions for Women and at the same time, bring about happier relations than now exist between that office and some administrators of preparatory schools. . . . I am for keeping Middlebury a Liberal Arts College in the best sense of the term. . . . An adequate library and a modern science building should be provided as soon as possible. . . ."

BENJAMIN W. FISHER, '14: ". . . . We as Alumni are very proud of the reputation that Middlebury enjoys as an outstanding Liberal Arts college. Addition of new subjects to the curriculum as the development of Arts and Science demands is proper and necessary. Any expansion into specialized education should be done cautiously, lest we find the College approaching the mediocre. . . ."

RALPH M. HUTCHINS, '14: ". . . . I feel and do advocate that if Middlebury could place in its Curriculum a strong course in Business Administration and Public Relations, the results would be of far greater advantage than the development along other avenues. My thoughts in further developments at Middlebury also carry the fact that money is needed to produce and maintain such added institutions. This must either come from Public Funds, Donations, Bequests or higher costs to the students. However, if such can be proven to be worthy, some methods will be provided from the financial field to carry on the Program, even to the construction of new buildings, laboratories, and other necessary items. These structures to be advocated, installed and should be advanced by those more closely and directly connected with the Program and its development. . . ."

ELBERT C. COLE, '15: ". . . . The one factor in the picture that remains unchanged is the need for scholarship aid to many worthy students. I admit that this is a plug for the Alumni Fund, but I assure you that it is unsolicited and that the need is genuine and pressing. . ."

RUSSELL E. HEMPHILL, '16: ". . . . Advocate a General Business Administration Course, better Psychology and Sociology courses, a required course in Public Speaking and a course in Egotism such as MIT instills in its students. . . ."

GEORGE W. GRANT, '17: ". . . . I favor increasing and maintaining the scope of the Alumni Fund. Large numbers of small donations are important not only in raising money but in increasing the interest in the College. . . ."

CHARLES J. LYON, '18: ". . . . From just across Vermont's eastern border, I can see an eager, vigorous Middlebury that would be happier and healthier if she could grow a bit and gain the advantages of extra size, income and power. A gradually increased enrollment to 850 men and 600 women would support a steady, balanced curriculum; provide and hold the specialists required in some departments and urgently needed in the sciences; attract from foundations and industry some capital gifts for buildings and equipment; permit the assignment of one man each to the various phases of administration; and give to the teams the coaches and depth that they meet in competition. The increased efficiency would maintain the quality of staff and students and thus keep Middlebury great. . . ."

HENRY D. CARLE, '19: ". . . . Coeducation gives a tone to a college that a strictly men's or women's college cannot attain. We must always remember that our graduates have to earn a living after graduation, so considerations should be given to offering courses that will prepare the Liberal Arts graduate for earning a livelihood. . . ."

ALAN W. FURBER, '20: ". . . . I feel that a Liberal Arts College should tend to 'its knitting.' It may be old fashioned, but I believe in the intrinsic value of the 'Humanities.' Middlebury might present to the undergraduates factual, constructive and fundamental information regarding specific careers. This should NOT be confined to one or two 'lectures' or talks to which all students, regardless of personal interest, are obliged to go. It should be a series of little seminars, conducted by successful practitioners in such fields as Advertising, Banking, Investments, Insurance, Publishing, Retailing, etc. Sitting with a group of students interested in that particular vocation, the guest discusses the job informally, answers questions and tells the student how he gets from where he IS to where he WANTS TO BE. Facts, details!! And all voluntary on the part of the undergraduate. . . ."

LINWOOD W. LAW, '21: ". . . . Any subjects, adaptable to our Liberal Arts program, which will better prepare the recipients of A.B. degrees to more efficiently take their place in the business and professional world should be considered as part of the ever-changing curriculum. Housing accommodations, when needed, are of first importance in the material plant and are followed closely by adequate library, laboratory and recitation facilities. It would appear feasible that artificial ice and a swimming pool be contemplated in any future construction plans for the college. . . ."

WILLIAM M. MEACHAM, '21: ". . . . The expansion of knowledge and enrollment has overtaxed the library facilities. Further expansion of its departments of Science, Business Administration and Education depends upon the student demand and available finances. More dormitories mean more expansion all along the line, which I would hesitate to advocate. I doubt the real value of 'Comprehensive Examinations' in a Liberal Arts College. The greatest need is more financial support from more of the beneficiaries of her largess, our Alumni. . . ."

LEIGHTON T. WADE, '22: ". . . . In considering the adoption of new courses at Middlebury, it is my feeling that we should try to satisfy reasonable demands and not oppose a trend just to be different. I do think it would be a mistake to expand enrollment faster than suitable accommodations are provided. . . ."

SANFORD A. CARROLL, '23: ". . . . A certain percentage of the alumni contribute regularly to the Alumni Fund. Others would like to do so but circumstances make it impossible for them to give substantial amounts at any one time and as a result contribute nothing to this worthy fund. I would like, at this time, to recommend a plan which would make it possible for every member of the Alumni Association to contribute regularly each month. Possibly you have given this plan consideration. All that I can say in return is that this plan is now being successfully used by the University of Buffalo. Under this plan, each member of the Alumni Association signs a pledge to give $1.00 to $5.00 per month over a period of thirty months. The college would mail each month an envelope to each member of the Association for the return of his pledge. This envelope would have all the data pertaining to the pledge printed on it, similar to the manner the U.S. Government imprints the envelope it mails out each month for its National Service Life Insurance returns from its World War II veterans. If we could obtain $2.00 or even $1.00 per month regularly, plus larger donations on occasion, from every member of our Alumni Association we would really be accomplishing something for the college.

"Middlebury must have proper financial support from her Alumni if she is to continue to properly prepare students for the enjoyment of a full life and provide them with the knowledge necessary to earn a living in the various fields of business endeavors. . . ."

CYRIL E. SHELVEY, '23: ". . . . A larger chapel would do us no harm. I am not a particularly religious soul but I do know that compulsory Chapel did more to knit together the student body of my day than any other one factor. One uniting common-interest experience for returning old grads was a chance to get together and sing their Alma Mater. It took some modern soul to come up with the thought that Midd didn't have one. We sang in my day with due reverence a beautiful song that for a great many years had been given that status. We loved it! The greatest mistake Midd has ever made if it meant to retain Alumni good relationship was discarding of the old and taking on the new without a poll of the Alumni body. If Midd is going to continue under the guise of questionable progress to lightly cast aside tradition, it need not be surprised at the very low relative response of the Alumni body to such modern ventures as the Scholarship Fund. The same faithful give from year to year. We've got to broaden the base. Let's not take away the few strings to which they tie. . . ."

J. ALLAN HUNTER, '24: ". . . . A strong Business Administration Course would undoubtedly solidify and enhance Middlebury's present standing in the educational world. . . . In addition to the usual course offered, I would suggest that serious thought be given toward a required four year course in vocabulary building with constant emphasis on public speaking and writing. . . Anything that Middlebury can do that will increase our graduates' ability to 'not only make themselves understood, —but to reduce the area of misunderstanding' would insure to the college— the continued loyalty, respect, and admiration of the individual—and to the individual a Future of which he need have no fear. . . ."

DONALD D. FREDRICKSON, '25: ". . . . It is my belief that the present ratio of undergraduates is about right— 700 men to 500 women—I definitely feel it is necessary to maintain this larger ratio in favor of men, in order to adequately compete with other colleges and to attract the calibre of men Middlebury wants. . . The introduction and addition of new courses to a curriculum is always a healthy sign of progress and forward thinking and is most essential in meeting changing conditions. A strong Business Administration Course, together with those additional scientific courses which might be of assistance to students interested in advanced study would materially add to the strength of the curriculum and should prove helpful in overcoming the loss of some men we are now undoubtedly experiencing because of their lack. . . . From personal observations and discussions with a number of undergraduates, it appears that increased library facilities, an artificial ice rink and a swimming pool are urgently needed and of paramount importance. . . It is hardly necessary to mention, of course, that a satisfied, well-paid faculty always is most essential and should be considered a must. . . ."

MELVIN C. LIVINGSTON, '25: ". . . . Impressive indeed has been the logical, positive and wholesome physical growth of Middlebury during the past quarter century. May it continue to cling tenaciously to that philosophy which makes Middlebury a truly Liberal Arts college, yet promotes a curriculum which is forward-looking. Middlebury is MIDDLEBURY because of excellent spiritual and administrative leadership, a strong faculty and a student body representative of America. May no policy develop that may favor scholastic ability and economic background solely. Is it being too traditional to hope that someday Middlebury can again offer the facilities which may make it possible to have daily and Sunday Chapel for all at one time? . . . ."

HARRY J. FRANK, '26: ". . . . A strong movement for a separate building and department of Business Administration should be an objective for the future. A course covering practical economics taught by a businessman on how to make a 'buck' rather than one telling the government how to spend one is needed. The average business man is unfamiliar with the 'meat' in an earnings statement. . . ."

HILTON P. BICKNELL, '27: ". . . . Another dormitory for men, and an addition to the Library are urgently needed, much more so, than artificial ice for hockey. I do not believe it is necessary for Middlebury College to develop a special Business Administration Department as has been mentioned by some Alumni. I was disappointed when the 'B.S.' was dropped from our program. Should it be returned? . . . ."

MARSHALL B. HARDY, '26: ". . . . Business Administration would be an important addition to the Middlebury curriculum, one which should have been made long ago. I can think of several courses which we now offer with considerably less practical value to the graduate in later life. The need for new college buildings is a subject of endless discussion with preferences based on individual interests. . . ."

E. MURRAY HOYT, '26: ". . . . I personally would hate to see the college grow any larger. Things like an artificial ice rink and swimming pool would be nice if someone gave them to the college. I have been very much disturbed to learn that by undergraduates of other colleges and universities that Middlebury is considered a college of heavy drinking. Probably that is a matter for the Administration and the student body, and not anything that should concern the Alumni. It is the only thing about the College that I am exercised about. . . ."

W. RANSOM RICE, '26: ". . . . The Alumni look at the College and find a number of problems. At the Homecoming Alumni Council meeting last fall we learned that the Trustees of the College felt that Middlebury had about attained its maximum size. If this is true then some of the future problems concerning additions to the plant will be eliminated. Thought should be given to a revaluation of the curriculum and the proper building needs of a revitalized curriculum. This brings us to the matter of the library. In its present condition it is said to be overcrowded and one of the first 'musts' is the addition of a new library wing. New courses requiring research will further complicate the already existing space. If the College enrollment remains the same then new dormitory space will be needed by the men. If so, from where will the money come for the construction of a new dormitory? The question of tuition is always an important problem. If tuition is raised will it not result in an elimination of good students who can not afford to come to Middlebury. Increased tuition may mean decreased enrollment or further scholarship aid. From where will these funds come? Closely allied to this matter of tuition is the problem of athletic scholarships. Should Middlebury, as a number of her opponents are now said to be doing, provide athletic scholarships in order to meet competition or should we continue along our present line. . . ?"

DR. LESTER Q. STEWART, '26: ". . . . After discussion with several graduates of various ages, it would seem to the writer that one of the few things that Middlebury lacks is a satisfactory VOCATIONAL CONSULTATION SERVICE. The problem of what field of endeavor offers the most satisfaction and rewards to the undergraduate probably has not changed to any extent in recent years. It would seem that if the students had the opportunity to learn the qualifications necessary in the various fields, that they would be in an advantageous position to choose the one best suited for them. This could be accomplished by having qualified individuals in various fields available for talks and consultations. . . ."

RICHARD A. LOBBAN, '29: ". . . . I am more and more convinced that a small coeducational college is ideal. When I first went to Middlebury I felt that this was true, and I believe that I have convinced a number of others since. The strong tie that we have developed with M.I.T. has also contributed greatly to the Middlebury curriculum for those who wish to go on in the engineering field. I believe the Liberal Arts background is most advantageous to any future endeavor that a man or a woman wishes to pursue. . . ."

WALTER S. KEEN, '30: ". . . . Although many excellent applicants cannot be accepted under the present enrollment-ratio policy, it appears socially sound and highly desirable. New subjects and courses should certainly be added to the curriculum to keep pace with the needs and demands of modern society. Specialization at the expense of generalization is a questionable improvement in a Liberal Arts college. The most reasonable additions should provide not depth but breadth of curriculum. For the effort and money expended, there is no area where the possibilities for return are greater or where rewards are more meaningful than in the counseling, advising and guidance service. Any concentrated programs providing assistance to students, in the solution of their educational, financial, and social problems can't fail to produce better students, more loyal graduates. . . ."

J. CALVIN AFFLECK, '31: ". . . .The workaday world today offers the greatest opportunities to the man or woman who is a trained specialist. Middlebury could strengthen its curriculum considerably by the addition of practical business courses in Advertising, Selling, Office Management, Personnel Management, Journalism, Labor Relations and How to Operate A Retail Business. Studies combined with summer practical field experience would be ideal. Business, today, is looking for trained experienced personnel. Middlebury graduates would find the door opened wider to them if they could demonstrate a practical background of business courses and field experience in addition to the wholesome Liberal Arts education for which Middlebury is noted. . . ."

DONALD F. WHITNEY, '32: ". . . . I am interested in a good course in Business Administration. Also, there is need for strong emphasis on vocational guidance, particularly for freshmen. . . ."

CARL E. ANDERSON, '34: ". . . . I believe stronger courses in business and the Science would be of great advantage to the graduating student today. Competition is becoming keener and more working tools are needed for people to get ahead. . . ."

JOHN C. HOLMES, '36: ". . . . I would like to see a continuance of the present Liberal Arts curriculum with the addition of any courses not presently available which would give a better well-rounded education. I would not, however, want to see any present or added courses stressed to such an extent that students would come to Midd solely for a specialized education as this would gradually defeat the present benefits of Middlebury's general Liberal Arts education. . . ."

JOHN F. LONERGAN, '37: ". . . .The college should give more science courses and a strong course in Business Administration. In fact, a required General Course in these two fields should be included in the curriculum Freshman year. America is growing and Middlebury should try to fulfill the demand for the type of education that it has to offer. . . ."

ALLISON S. BEEBE, '38: ". . . . Alumni who watch Middlebury's development are proud of their college. Encouraging alumni to take an interest is highly desirable and, therefore, I urge that the considerations on major decisions be offered for the benefit of those who will take time to study the questions. . . I would like to see more courses in Business Administration because I believe they would be beneficial to many graduates and would help to attract the right kind of men. There are limitations to the degree of specialization that is possible and only those who really study the problems should influence Middlebury's decisions. . . ."

ROBERT J. M. MATTESON, '38: ". . . . My feeling is that Middlebury should continue to place its main emphasis on the Humanities. While adding a few more 'practical' courses may be justified, I would not like to see such a move remake the College into a primarily vocational or scientific school. I believe the central goal of the College should be to turn out well-rounded citizens—mature men and women prepared to bear their full responsibilities as members of local communities, the nation, and the world. This requires, I think, a program of learning and doing which emphasizes breadth more than specialization, which involves extra-curricular activities as well as academic work, and which provides some time for creative relaxation along with facilities for serious scholarship. . . ."

ROBERT W. LORD, '39: ". . . . Middlebury, as a 'small,' Liberal Arts college, needs a faculty capable of preparing students for a difficult life. A background of general education is essential for happiness in our society, with languages and knowledge of our cultural development needed to meet the challenges to world peace. Too many business specialists are unhappy because cut off from our culture. Specialization is fine, after college. I would like to see adapted M.I.T. Plans for other fields such as Business Administration. . . ."

WILLIAM FERGUSON, '41: ". . . . More emphasis should be given to the Arts and Sciences instead of adding new subjects. Thus I suggest more concentration on what we now have. There's not much sense in a small Liberal Arts college trying to be a university. . ."

ROBERT B. RIVEL, '42: ". . . . A succinct expression of Alumni views toward the College can be found in answers to the question, 'Would you send your children to Middlebury?' In my case the answer is clearly, 'Yes,' and is based upon a feeling that the strong points of the College offset its weak points. The strong points are its physical assets, its coeducational system with a well-balanced division of men and women students, and its objective of providing a Liberal Arts education with a minimum of specialization. The weak points lie mainly in an insufficient endowment fund relative to the enrollment which impairs the curriculum and the quality of the faculty and leaves some doubt as to the competitive position of the College as an educational institution. . . ."

ROBERT J. ADSIT, JR., '43: ". . . . More attention should be given to the improvement of courses in Science. . . ."

RAY SACHER, '47: ". . . . It appears to be a most substantial feeling that the unique values of a Middlebury education are due, in great measure, to the clear channels of communication afforded only by limited enrollment. I don't believe that any single quality is deemed so sound as the small size of the College community. To be sure, the coeducational nature of the community is equally responsible for the intellectual stimulus and healthy experiences to which we were exposed (when we permitted ourselves) and, doubtless, the ratio of men to women will affect that circumstancerathercritically....However, the times notwithstanding it is my opinion that the proportion of men to women should be more nearly equal to maintain a social balance of more natural dimensions. . . . '47 also seems to feel that strengthening the curriculum would be infinitely more profitable than expanding it. There are, particularly, departments and subject areas where the necessary dynamics of instruction are sadly lacking....The conclusion appears to favor establishing a campus climate which will attract the type of instructor who will, in himself, strengthen a department and provide the impetus for extended study. And finally, since our intellectual purposes must receive paramount attention, our material expansion must reflect those purposes. . . To my mind, the current outcry for 'artificial ice' is Sophomoric, ill-conceived, and thoroughly shortsighted. If we cannot compete satisfactorily, then let's not compete at all. If we must compete and gain that satisfaction at the expense of our Primary Purpose for existing—the broadening of our thinking powers—then we do not deserve to call ourselves an institution of higher learning. Middlebury, let us hope, looks to a more profound competition and a more significant sense of achievement. . . ."

F. BRONSON HICKCOX, JR., '49: ". . . . Middlebury has established herself as a 'small' Liberal Arts college. To me, the most important part of Middlebury's value to the student lies not only in the fact that it is a Liberal Arts school but to a great extent because it is a 'small' school. I thoroughly agree in the principle that all college students should have a minimum of three years of Liberal Arts courses before specialization. But I further feel that the cohesiveness of a small student body and the resulting experience of learning to live and work with one another (which is experienced at its best in the smaller colleges) is a necessary complement to the Liberal Arts curriculum. Buildings and the other physical aspects of Middlebury College must remain secondary to the quality of the instruction and the cross-sectionalism of the student body which should not be allowed to increase appreciably above its present size. Only in this way will Middlebury justify its future existence to her Alumni. . . ."

GEORGE R. DUNNING, JR., '50: ". . . . I'm inclined to favor any ideas that will make the College more attractive to men. From what I have been able to gather Middlebury has certain difficulties in getting men whereas this is not the case with women. It would seem that a study of what the young men of today want in the way of a college plus a study of what industry expects from the men graduating might provide a basis to determine if the stress should be along lines of expansion of certain departments or a general overhaul of existing facilities is in order. . . ."

KENNETH A. NOURSE, '52: ". . . . Middlebury is a small college. I would be opposed to any further growth in the student body, or any deviation from the present male-female ratio. It is my feeling that more money should be channeled to the Physical Sciences, primarily in the form of new equipment. Artificial ice—for the present—is the problem of some zealous and well-heeled alumnus. . . ."

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Comments by Council members Dr. Bernis D. Colby, '92, Michael F. Halpin, '98, and Gilbert W. Roberts, '02, have been included in the introductory portion of The Alumni Look at the College where reference is made to the building needs, size of enrollment and curriculum of the College.

Lt. Col. Alexander McElroy has assumed command of the Middlebury R.O.T.C. unit. His appointment is for sixty days when a permanent commanding officer will be designated. Lt. Col. Steart Williams who established the Middlebury unit died of a heart attack recently at the College.

The President's Page . . .

One cannot spend a year in the Middle East,* closely associated both with a culture vastly different from our own and with problems at the same time broad and intricate, without gaining a sense of perspective. One significant result of my recent experience has been to discover that for the present the forest seems to take precedence over the trees. I have read with keen interest and appreciation the "Look at the College" which the Alumni and Alumnae present in this issue of the News Letter. As one would expect, there are differences in emphasis as to our proper objectives; there are perhaps sharper differences in opinions in regard to the proper means for reaching our objectives. Yet when one reviews these comments of our graduates it is clear that in the long look—the look at the forest—the differences blur and fade out and a clear image emerges.

Many Alumni in their "Look at the College" stress the need of preparing our students for careers in business. Middlebury realizes fully its responsibility in preparing young men and women in the Liberal Arts, who, in turn, will be able to offer needed leadership for the direction of business and economic affairs. It is interesting to note that the Liberal Arts colleges of the Nation supply annually far more persons for business pursuits than do all the business schools of the Nation. Each year representatives from business and industry come to the Middlebury campus and interview seniors and many men and women secure positions. In general these representatives of business have expressed enthusiasm for the excellent Liberal Arts background offered by Middlebury and have gone out of their way to compliment us on the quality of the Seniors they have interviewed. On occasion they have made suggestions with regard to the curriculum which resulted a few years ago in our Economics Department rearranging its requirements for a major to meet the needs both of those students planning to do graduate work and those going directly into business.

We realize that business is still the principal source of livelihood and that it operates through millions of enterprises, large and small. The competence with which these enterprises are operated is now a matter of vital concern to the personal well-being of each of us. Proper leadership must be provided in the field of business and a Liberal Arts education is preparation for such leadership. This need of business leadership is realized by the College. Courses offered by our Economics Department in conjunction with the balance of our Liberal Arts curriculum seek to instill in our students "an intellectual capacity for analysis, for appraisal of trends, for expression and persuasion, for comprehension and understanding."

It is my belief, however, that Middlebury should

Footnote: For some time the Trustee Committee on Long Range Planning has been giving thought to our physical and financial needs. The chart at the bottom of page 19 is based on suggestions offered to the Committee by members of the faculty and administration. Many of the recommendations expressed by Council members in the following pages will be found in this chart on Long Range Planning.

*President Stratton recently returned to Middlebury from Saudi Arabia where for the past year he served as Point Four Director of the U. S. Technical Assistance Program in this Middle East Country.

not attempt to become a "small university." We should not try, for example, to give vocational preparation for careers in engineering, or pharmacy, or salesmanship, or insurance. If we did attempt to give vocational training for specific careers we should spread our resources too thinly to achieve the results of which we could be proud. Middlebury students must be given a broad and fundamental education which will help them in the pursuit of their working careers. A broad basic preparation is a MUST in preparing for the unforeseen opportunities of the future.

Very little has been said in the Alumni comments about our commitment to prepare students for graduate work. It is a fact, however, that an increasingly large proportion of our students go on to graduate schools. For example, at present twenty-four men graduates of Middlebury are attending medical schools. The quality of our instruction as well as its content must over the long run preserve our reputation for sending able students to the graduate schools of our universities. Yet, I believe, we are in complete agreement that for Middlebury College there is one vital,essential objective which must encompass all our endeavors. We earnestly desire to provide an environment, physical, intellectual, and spiritual which will prepare our students to lead the "good life" in whatever walks of life they follow. As Mark Van Doren has said:

"The aim of liberal education is one's own excellence, the perfection of one's intellectual character. Liberal education makes the person competent; not merely to know or do; but also, and indeed chiefly, to be."

Samuel S. Stratton

LONG RANGE PLANNING

NON-PHYSICAL	PHYSICAL-ACADEMIC	PHYSICAL-NON ACADEMIC	PHYSICAL-ATHLETIC
1. Improvement of faculty salaries— a. Ranges raised to optimum levels b. Actual salaries nearer median of the range	1. New library wing containing at minimum a. large reading room b. more stack space c. cubicles and seminar rooms	1. Center Battell a. Dining Hall b. social rooms c. dormitory space for women	1. Tennis courts, present authorization provides only 3 good ones. None at present.
2. Improvement of faculty student ratio a. more instructors, especially in English, Economics, Political Science, American Literature, History, etc.	2. New Science building replacing Warner and Chemistry, housing: a. Chemistry b. Biology c. Physics d. Geology and Geography e. Drafting and Surveying	2. Permanent Building for Student Union a. common rooms b. extra-curricular offices c. bookstore, snack-bar	2. Artificial ice rink in north end of Field House. Nearly all competing hockey teams have it.
3. More scholarship funds a. more full tuition scholarships b. regular program of bursary scholarships c. scholarships for freshman women	3. Auditorium & Theatre Arts replacing Playhouse a. fully equipped stage, back stage, workshop, costume rooms b. auditorium for 750	3. New dormitory for women replacing Hillcrest Weybridge House, Porter House	3. Lodge at Snow Bowl for a. warming b. snack-bar c. rest rooms
4. Absorption of course fees, laboratory and other splinter fees in general tuition.	4. Speech and Audio Center for a. modern languages b. speech c. music d. radio station e. ballad collection		4. Swimming pool

The Alumnae Look at the College

By Dorothea E. Higgins, '30, National Alumnae President

With Middlebury a small college where, as undergraduates, students enjoys such close relationships that they build a warm personal feeling of identification with the College, an old College whose Alumnae body represents a wide variation in age groups, and a College that has drawn on a broad cross section geographically for its students, an article on "The Alumnae Look at the College" becomes very challenging if it is to be truly representative of Alumnae.

In view of this, it seemed desirable to consult the Alumnae Council. Letters were sent to the eighty members of the Council requesting an expression of personal viewpoint, an explanation of representative alumnae opinion on subjects of general interest, and in addition a list of the questions that Alumnae would like to have answered in order to feel better informed and more closely in touch with the college. The wonderful response is an excellent indication of the genuine interest which the alumnae have maintained in the College.

In some cases, the Council members consulted, with large numbers of the alumnae in their area and had evidently given serious thought to the subject before replying. Many of the comments are included below, but the writers are not identified because in my letter to them I promised that no one would be quoted by name, in order to encourage full discussion.

A striking characteristic of the comments that I believe should be mentioned first is the remarkable consistency on fundamental points regardless of age group. Replies were received from graduates ranging from the class of 1900 through 1952 in fairly even distribution. Many of the thoughts expressed by recent graduates are almost identical with those of older Alumnae. What alumnae say they value in their Middlebury experience, what thay take pride in, and what they want for the college for the future—even the type of questions they ask—reflect a continuity of thinking that would surprise many older alumnae and be very reassuring to those who wonder whether there has been a change in fundamental sense of values over the years.

At the same time the number and variety of subjects discussed and questions raised indicate a desire for information and a very active interest in current trends and policies. In some cases, too, with obvious sincerity alumnae have expressed concern about certain possible trends. All in all, after considering the replies, I felt that only by spending some time on campus could I write an informed article that would match in sincerity this alumnae response.

In the following therefore, I shall attempt to present the views expressed by alumnae and also, based on several days of visiting and discussion at Middlebury, the answers to questions that many of you have in mind.

Pride in the College

Leading all other impressions as one reads alumnae comment is the feeling of pride in the college,—pride in its high reputation, pride in its scholastic standards, in its athletic records, in its physical beauty, in its progress, and pride in the spiritual leadership which alumnae have received as undergraduates.

Middlebury Alumnae, young and old, obviously feel that special advantages have come to them because this is a small college which has provided the opportunity for the close relationships and leadership that so many fine and unselfish men and women in the faculty and administration have given them. They value highly the particular qualities of outstanding spiritual and academic leadership which they consider, at least in some measure, due to New England influence. Older Alumnae, in particular, commented frequently on the remarkable expansion in physical facilities. Letter after letter reflected warmth and happy memories as alumnae referred to an intangible "feeling or spirit" that has been treasured since graduation.

Typical of the comments are:

"As one of the 'old ones,' who has in the last four or five years returned to College often enough to take a new and lively interest in what goes on . . . , I can voice only the warmest enthusiasm for my Alma Mater. The unbelievable progress in the building program, the increase in student numbers, and the expansion in dormitory and recreational facilities since my day are well worth coming to observe and marvel at. But most wonderful of all is that one finds the same old Middlebury spirit of strong loyalty and deep devotion among alumnae of all years . . . I'm glad to do my bit in helping to perpetuate Middlebury's fine name and reputation."

"I feel that the Alumnae with whom I am in touch are tremendously proud of Middlebury today - its reputation for scholarship, coupled as it is with well advertised opportunities for sports and outdoor fun. They are proud of the beauty of the campus; the comfortable new dormitories; the new Field House and other improvements."

"Limited as the college was . . . as to equipment, number of faculty, number of students, and number of electives, I like to think Middlebury means as much to present day women as it did to me. I hope that the faculty are God fearing men and women with high ideals and the ability to inspire those in their classes with high ideals; that each has a personal interest in his students; that the wives of the faculty possess a high type of womanly ideals and exert a real influence as did the faculty wives of my time; that there is some religious influence to take the place of the old-time student YWCA."

"Everyone (a group of about fifteen) expressed a deep feeling of regard for Middlebury. . . . They are proud of its record in scholarship as well as athletics. . . . The general remarks were: we loved it; we're proud of it both for men and women; we admire its physical set up, its departments, its atmosphere, and we hope it stays a good small New England college with high spiritual and scholastic standards."

"I look at our College with Faith in its future worth as well as appreciation for its past, for I know the devoted loyalty and wisdom of the Trustees and the difficult years of a hard working President and Faculty."

Admission Policy

Alumnae opinion overwhelmingly ranks the admissions policy and scholarships as the areas that at the present time take precedence over all others in widespread interest and importance to the college.

Coupled with pride in the college is an intense awareness of the value of good public relations. Particularly on admissions, many alumnae show a sincere desire for a better understanding of the policy, and a belief that, if better informed, they could be of service to the College in strengthening public relations.

They regret that there have recently been so many changes in Directors of Admission for they realize this has caused confusion, but believe that if a statement of policy were published it would aid in dispelling this confusion and benefit the College.

Some of the questions in the minds of Alumnae are:

"The policy of admission, particularly in the Women's College, is of vital interest to all, because sooner or later we each have an occasion to recommend someone, and naturally if the person doesn't get accepted, we wonder why."

"What does the Director of Admissions look for in an interview with an applicant? Do High School marks carry the most weight? Are extra curricular activities considered important?"

"I personally feel that alumnae should be given as much information as is feasible about the policy of the admissions office. If they know the facts about how many apply and how many can be accepted, the ideas on representation from various areas, etc., they will be more sympathetic and probably more helpful in smoothing ruffled feathers of disappointed friends they may know, and can give reasonable explanations."

"What proportion of applications for admission can be accepted, and what policies govern the choice?"

"I think that all are very proud of Middlebury's standards and reputation and are eager that both be maintained, and all are willing to do their share to help in any way possible. Probably their one concern is whether or not to encourage their friends to register their daughters for admission despite the long list of applicants."

"I have heard complaints about too much stress on geographic distribution which is beneficial but works hardship on deserving students from Vermont. Vermont alumnae feel strongly on this point.

"Personally, I especially like giving preference to sons and daughters of alumni and alumnae - within reason, of course, and would be interested in knowing how much emphasis is given to it in admitting students.

"As a secondary school teacher I should like to know details of entrance examinations and requirements, and how much stress is given them."

"I do often wonder why it is so difficult for a girl, who seemed to have every qualification, to be able to enter Middlebury. Is it because you must keep the number down to that of the men?"

"The admissions policy is always criticized by some areas of the country each year primarily because rumors which get started get all out of proportion after they have been batted around a bit and the result is that various groups feel that their city, town or area is being discriminated against when it comes to choosing each new freshman class. It seems to me that the college could benefit greatly in terms of good feeling is some of the admissions policies were published more specifically and also perhaps use the Alumni and Alumnae Council members as delegates at large to spike some of these rumors . . . but in order to do this they must obviously have the facts to work most effectively."

Because of the many inquiries on this subject, I know you will be interested in the following information which was supplied to me by Miss Barbara Wells, who was appointed Director of Admissions last Fall.

Many of the questions that have arisen on the admissions policy have been due to changing factors that have entered the picture starting in 1943. Obviously, aside from the policy question on size of the college, the number who can be accepted is limited to the dormitory facilities available. While even prior to 1943 the number of applicants had considerably exceeded the number who could be accepted, starting in that year the rate of applicants leaped suddenly. Right after the war there was another enormous increase in applications. With these increases the proportion who could be accepted obviously was much smaller that previously. The public relations problem became most acute when after the war the veterans returned and dormitory space available to the women's college returned to normal. For two successive years, in 1947 and 1948, because of large upper classes the number of freshmen who could be accepted was cut to an abnormally low figure and the ratio accepted reached the figure of 1 out of 10. Since then there has been a sounder relationship between those accepted and applications. During the current year, for example, it has been between 1 out of 4 and 1 out of 5. For the coming year 1953–1954, applications closed on February 20. At that time 680 applications had been received from which a class of 140 will enter this Fall.

It will be apparent from the above that these changing conditions have in themselves caused confusion, for they have created a much greater public relations problem as well as creating the need for development of new policies. Competition has become extraordinarily keen, particularly from the metropolitan areas of New York, New Jersey, Boston, and in fact from most of

New England. For many years the number of exceptionally well qualified applicants has exceeded the number who could be accepted, presenting a real problem for the Admissions Office. The large number of women on the Dean's List, a matter of comment by many alumnae, is an indication of the high level at which selection is being made.

The Director of Admissions when making selection is looking for fine wholesome outstanding young women. They must show high scholastic potential as demonstrated by high achievement. To determine this, high school marks are considered and in addition scores on the College Board tests. Every applicant is required to take the morning session of the College Board Scholastic Aptitude tests in her senior year of high school. The afternoon session of these tests is required if the applicant is below the top third of her high school class. Personality and school citizenship are considered in an effort to select girls who are dependable and will conduct themselves properly. If a girl can carry extra-curricular activities and at the same time maintain a high scholastic record, this is in her favor for it enhances the possibility that she will be able to maintain the outstanding record that is necessary to meet the present high competitive standard in the College.

It is the policy of the College, Miss Wells states, to accept women who are daughters of alumni or alumnae and women from Vermont if it seems that they can do the work, other things being equal. In other words, definite preference is shown these applicants. Occasionally, however, it may happen that serious consideration must be given as to whether it is really in the girl's best interests to accept her, if there is doubt as to her ability to meet the high standard of competition scholastically throughout the four years.

In view of the doubts expressed by some alumnae on whether there is too much emphasis on geographical distribution to the detriment of Vermont applicants, I think it will be a surprise to many, as it was to me, to learn how few applications have been received in recent years from Vermont girls. Last year only 21 Vermont applications were received, and of these 12 actually entered. Only 18 Vermont applications were received for the coming year. Part of the explanation of this seems to be financial, since tuition for Vermont residents is considerably lower at the University of Vermont, whereas many of those young people who can afford college prefer the experience of going outside the state.

The College desires to have a wide cross section of backgrounds because it believes that students will grow in knowledge and understanding in an environment that fosters a broadening exchange of ideas. This means attention to geographical distribution—nationally, by states, and by schools within areas. Actually, in view of the large number and high calibre of applicants, it would be possible to select a complete class of highly qualified girls from New York State alone or from the New York–New Jersey metropolitan area. The limitations this would place on the experience and the growth in understanding of students if such a practice were followed is clear. At the same time, there is the situation that over 600 schools were represented among the applicants of the last three years, intensifying the public relations problem with the schools.

The geographical distribution of students during the current year, a question many asked, is as follows:

United States:

New York	126
Massachusetts	68
New Jersey	65
Connecticut	51
Vermont	44
Pennsylvania	23
Ohio	21
New Hampshire	13
Illinois	10
Maryland	8
Virginia	7
District of Columbia	6
Minnesota	6
Delaware	5
Michigan	5
Rhode Island	5
Maine	4
Wisconsin	4
California	3
Colorado	2
Indiana	2
Texas	2
Florida	1
Iowa	1
Kentucky	1
Missouri	1
North Carolina	1
Oklahoma	1
Tennessee	1
Washington	1
West Virginia	1

Outside United States

Canada	6
Hawaii	3
Alaska	2
France	2
Puerto Rico	2
Netherland W. Indies	1
Saudi Arabia	1
TOTAL	506

There is doubt in the minds of some Alumnae that alumnae recommendations are of value. These alumnae will be interested to know that the college welcomes such recommendations, and, where the alumnae knows the girl personally and provides information on the girl's character and good citizenship, finds them of definite value. Thoughtful Alumnae will realize, however, that it is important to investigate carefully and be sure the girl is outstanding because of the many factors to be considered in the final selection.

A plan which shows great promise for improvement in public relations with prospective students and their parents has been introduced this Spring by Dean Elizabeth Kelly. A group of Sophomore Guides will be on call from the Admissions Office to guide visitors around campus Monday through Friday each week. The group will be an honor society. The girls will be given the necessary information, and at the end of each year will indoctrinate the Freshmen who have been chosen for the following year. Dean Kelly announced the plan to the Sophomores in March and asked for volunteers pointing out that it would be an honor to be chosen, that it is a worthwhile service, and that the girls can help share the college's responsibility to visitors. Seventy-five girls enthusiastically volunteered. From this group 27 were selected by a committee of students. One of my delightful experiences while visiting Middlebury was to attend a tea given by Dean Kelly for the group to discuss the plan. The girls are charming, attractive, and unselfishly eager to be helpful. Their warmth and interest should make many friends for the college and provide a real feeling of welcome for prospective students.

Before concluding the discussion on admissions, I should like to say, as your president, that alumnae have every reason to have confidence in the way this will be administered by Miss Wells. Those of you who know her are familiar with her sincerity and ability.

The problems involved are difficult, but she is giving serious attention to the questions raised. She is eager for constructive suggestions, and alumnae can help most by telling her as soon as they know of someone who is unhappy. I urge you to write to her when you have questions, for I feel sure that you will get an explanation that will restore your confidence, and also that she will do everything possible to make constructive use of your information.

Scholarships and the Alumni Fund

Equally serious to the college as admissions, in the minds of the alumnae, is the need for scholarships and there is a growing awareness of the importance of the Alumni Fund. Alumnae are concerned about the present cost of attendance at college, and the fact that it is in the interests of the college that a girl who is worthy may attend Middlebury regardless of her economic status. They feel that many more scholarships are necessary, including freshmen scholarships. They are concerned about whether there is a fair ratio between scholarships from the Fund in the Men's and Women's colleges, and would like more information about this. Many feel that if more detailed information were published on the scholarships granted (by number, class, sex, amount, geographical area, etc.) as well as the number who leave college for financial reasons, it would attract more support for the Fund because it would make this need self-evident.

From the numerous comments, I list a few:

"We are concerned that there always be a place at Middlebury for some girls who must work part of their way and who will need scholarship funds. As alumnae we must do more to make this possible."

"I hope to see more scholarship aid made available to Freshmen girls."

"Adequate scholarships for deserving students so that a cross section from all walks of life can be maintained."

"Some thought that there should be scholarship competition funds that Freshmen could earn before they enter Middlebury."

"How many girls benefit from the Alumni Fund?"

"We are pleased that there is greater interest evidenced by alumnae and hope that more can be done from the scholarship fund for the younger women."

"If some industrial companies could be persuaded to give scholarship bases, I can't see the harm."

"The attitude toward the fund in general has changed and it is now a subject to be discussed with pride rather than more or less ignored."

There can be no doubt that the need for more scholarships is serious. Although I understand that the basic minimum cost (which includes tuition, room, and board) at Middlebury is at least $300 less a year than most other first class women's colleges in the East, it now is $1,300. Students themselves are conscious of the need. Mortarboard and Panhellenic each give a scholarship, and from the profits of the Variety Show, which is one of the leading events of Winter Carnival, the students have decided to give two $100 scholarships, one each to the men's and women's colleges.

Those Alumnae who raise the questions "Has Middlebury become a rich man's college?" and "How many girls are working to help themselves?" would be interested in Dean Kelly's description of the struggles some have had to stay in school. Last Fall she made a survey of the three upper classes, and found that 289 girls had had summer jobs and had earned a total of $73,573. Most of the girls had worked as waitresses, in playgrounds, in offices, as salespeople, or as camp councillors. At the time I talked with her, 219 girls were working on campus as waitresses, messengers, office clericals, on house duty, or proctoring. Throughout the year, she told me the number would approximate 300.

All loyal alumnae should be concerned with this real problem. As one states:

"Naturally each alumnus (a) wishes to have the wonderful reputation of Middlebury preserved and becomes aware that part of that problem rests on his (or her) shoulders. Thus the Alumni Fund comes to mean more to him (or her)."

Each small contribution can be helpful and no project is more deserving of generous support.

Size of the Colleges

Clearly, belief in the advantages of a small college ranks high in the minds of alumnae. Next in number of comments were those on size of the college and ratio of the men's college to the women's. With only one exception, opinion strongly favored keeping the college small and at approximately its present size. Predominant opinion favored continuance of the present ratio, with a smaller number stating that a 50–50 ratio would be satisfactory.

During the current year, 1193 undergraduates have been enrolled, of which 688 are men and 505 women, or a ratio of 58%–42%.

In the words of some alumnae:

"Keep the enrollment about where it is now, so that Middlebury can retain the atmosphere and friendliness of a small college. (I spent one year at a large city university before going to Middlebury and am now taking a course at another - what a difference!" (A recent graduate)

"All but one (of a group of fifteen) wanted Middlebury kept a small college. . . . Most would like to keep 45 girls to 55 men or thereabouts, 50-50 being all right."

"I personally am opposed to increasing enrollment to the point where they won't all fit into Chapel, but I think all alumnae would be opposed to allowing the ratio to exceed 50-50 basis." (A recent graduate)

"I am not in favor of a larger enrollment in either college." (An early graduate)

Chapel

Numerous questions were asked about chapel, whether it is required, how often held, and what type of services are held.

The comment of a graduate in the mid-forties will strike an answering chord among many older Alumnae:

"The one thing I am most interested in is the change in the daily chapel routine. I believe that there are others who feel as I do that since the enrollment of the college became too large to allow the entire student body to assemble at the same time in Mead Chapel they have missed something that was particularly fine and typically Middlebury. I am aware of the fact that while I was in college there was an annual crusade to abolish daily chapel, and yet I think if any alumnae (or alumnus) looks back to some of their most gratifying and edifying experiences in Middlebury, daily chapel would be high on the list."

Seniors and juniors are now required to attend chapel on Tuesdays; sophomores and freshmen are required to attend on Wednesdays. Everyone is required to attend every other Sunday.

Services include scripture readings, hymns by the choir, and talks on religious subjects. On Monday and Thursday attendance is voluntary, and while it was small at first it has grown steadily.

On Friday and Saturday required assemblies are held on an intermittent basis when important college matters are to be announced.

Three years ago the fixed seating arrangement was discontinued. Since that time, students have been allowed to sit anywhere in the chapel they wish. Attendance is carefully checked, however, by a ticket and proctoring system.

The beauty of Mead Chapel has been greatly enhanced by the new altar and the new little chapel, both of which were described in recent editions of the NEWS LETTER.

Curriculum

Although there were many opinions expressed on curriculum, they touched on widely varying points and there was no pattern that appeared to reflect widespread alumnae thinking. Possibly the most significant is the feeling that there is need of a more organized vocational guidance program, professionally staffed and working with students as early in their college career as possible.

In discussing curriculum, most alumnae indicated a desire to be kept informed of trends in curriculum, new courses added, and courses dropped. There is also interest in information about the trend of students' majors, most popular courses, and what careers most students plan to follow.

In this category of news is the fact that as of this year Music is being offered as a major for the first time. New courses are being offered in "The History and Theory of Eastern Art" and (for men) "Safety Education." The only course which has been dropped recently, so far as I am aware, is the course in "Quantity Cookery." Home Economics, about which there were some specific inquiries, is still a major.

There has been a definite growth of interest in Fine Arts, and the Catalogue lists a number of courses that will probably be new to many older Alumnae. The range of interest among students is still wide, and enrollments continue heavy in the courses that have traditionally been popular. Predominant among the careers for which students are preparing are business, government work, teaching, and translating, with a large number planning for graduate work.

Other Topics of Interest

Though it will not be possible to cover all the topics of alumnae interest, a few more should be mentioned.

Alumnae have followed with interest the college building program. A soundproof music building and a swimming pool are additions which a number believe should be included in nearby future plans.

Many feel that faculty salaries should be higher. Others raise the question of the ratio of faculty to students, believing that the teaching burden may be too heavy on the faculty.

There has been growing concern about the appointment of an Alumnae Secretary and the length of time this job has been vacant.

All want news, news, news!

In this connection, so many mentioned how much they have enjoyed the talks Dean Kelly has given to alumnae that I discussed with the Dean and Mr. Huban the possibility of including in the NEWS LETTER some of this material, and it is likely that in the future there will be some brief notes on campus news.

I wish it were possible for all Alumnae to spend several days on campus while College is in session.

You would be amazed at the projects the girls have initiated and developed—the work of the Forum and Thrift Shop, the impressive Culture Conference, Midd Nite (an annual tradition now, which is a party given by the seniors, juniors, and sophomores for the freshmen and faculty), the sophomore teas for faculty wives, and the party given by the juniors for faculty wives.

You would be intrigued by the Casa Espanola (Spanish House) located in the McGilton House, and by the German table and Russian table in the dining room at Forest West.

You would be interested in the series of teas for all women students which Dean Kelly is giving in her home each Wednesday afternoon.

You would be impressed with the long list of new achievements by the students, and the maturity of their discussions in the Campus.

Most of all, you would be proud of the girls—their charm and attractiveness, their enthusiasm, their sense of responsibility, and their maturity.

As one Alumnae says:

"It seems to me that the present students are much more up to date, more conscious of the outside world and its problems, then we were, and their seriousness makes us seem positively giddy in retrospect!"

Alumnae Relations

A story on "The Alumnae Look at the College" to be complete must include a warm vote of appreciation from alumnae for all the courtesies and cooperation given by the college faculty and members of the administration. As one alumnae said:

"We are impressed with the welcome Middlebury extends always to returning alumnae. The way the faculty and the administration staff make us feel completely at home and wanted is outstanding."

Others mention the pleasure they receive from the NEWS LETTER and the class letters, their appreciation of the courtesies shown to the Alumnae Council, and the wonderful cooperation received in the past from the Alumnae Office. I must personally add my own sincere appreciation of the generosity both in time and assistance given me by Dean Kelly, Miss Wells, Mr. Huban, and others in preparing this article.

. . . . .

The lives of several thousand women who are living today have been enriched by their college experiences at Middlebury, and through these alumnae the name of the College is widely known. Yet I wonder if we truly realize the extent of the debt we owe to the past and the responsibility it carries.

How often do we remember that the College was founded only twenty-four years after the Declaration of Independence, and stop to marvel at the qualities of its founders—qualities that gave roots to the College—love of liberty, perseverance, imagination, and an impelling belief in the need for education despite what must have been almost insuperable difficulties. From those days on, a long list of men and women of character, ability, and unselfishness have added their particular contribution to the making of the fine college Middlebury is today. Each Alumnae will remember certain of these people with personal appreciation and often deep affection. In the hearts of so many of us is reserved a special feeling of honor and devotion for Mrs. John Thomas, our former Dean Eleanor Ross, whose contribution in foresight, wisdom, and understanding was so immeasurable.

A very wise woman once told me that every person who is successful, whether

(Continued on Page 27)

"Good Neighbor Policy"

By James H. Cassedy, '41

For more than a year Mrs. Cassedy (Barbara Snow, '46) and myself have been in the tiny but populous negro republic of Haiti. You may recall that Haiti, with the Dominican Republic, occupies the Caribbean island of Santo Domingo, situated roughly between Puerto Rico and Cuba, about three hours flight from Miami. You may also remember that, after the United States, Haiti was the first of the American republics to win its independence. In 1954 it will celebrate the 150th anniversary of that event.

James Cassedy, '41, and Mrs. Cassedy (Barbara Snow, '46) pause during a hike in the country not far from Port-au-Prince.

The Editor of the News Letter has asked that I describe for Alumni readers something of the job which brought us to Haiti. We are here to work with the Haitian-American Institute, Barbara as an English Teacher and myself as Director of the Institute.

In simplest terms the Institute is a bi-national educational and cultural center. It was formed ten years ago by a committee of local residents, both Haitians and Americans, as a means to promote understanding and better relations between the peoples of the two nations. This lofty concept was very much in line with the principles of the "Good Neighbor Policy." Accordingly, the State Department has not only endorsed but given substantial financial and other support to this Institute as well as to similar bi-national centers in nearly every Latin-American country, along with some in Asia and the Near-East.

It is felt that the best way to achieve the aims of the Institute is through a long-continued mutual exchange; exchange of ideas and information, of citizens of each country for study, of the national languages, and of the innumerable subtle values which constitute the culture of peoples. An integrated program based on intelligent exchange of this sort and on full discussion of the things exchanged can and does go a long way toward correcting misconceptions left by casual tourists or by over-aggressive businessmen, and in general toward filling in the gaps in understanding which inevitably exist between nations.

The Institute is located in the heart of Port-au-Prince in a charming old building lavishly decorated with the fancy gingerbread designs which were popular here in the late 19th century. The grounds are spacious, with pleasant lawns and a variety of tropical trees and flowering shrubs, such as royal palms, mango trees, hibiscus, and poinsettias.

The specific program which the Institute has undertaken may be divided roughly into academic and non-academic aspects. Academically, the Institute might be likened to a rather specialized adult education center in the United States, and a fairly large one, too, for last year there were over 700 students enrolled in classes. Most of these 700 came to learn the English language. In Haiti, as in the rest of Latin America, English classes are tremendously popular, for, with the important American trade and Point 4 expenditures in these countries, a working knowledge of English is almost an essential for personal success in business. Some commercial firms here consider it so important that they pay the tuition fees for their employees attending English classes. The National Bank of Haiti sent 100 of its employees to the Institute last year and has made a working knowledge of English a requirement for supervisory advancement.

A variety of English classes at beginning, intermediate and advanced levels is offered mornings and evenings, each usually meeting three times per week. After they complete the advanced level, students may polish up in conversation groups or Business English classes. There are also special classes for children, another for taxi-drivers, and another for upper-class housewives. In the course of learning our language, the students also learn a great deal about American customs, institutions, ideas, and ways of living.

Barbara is one of the seven English teachers, four of whom are Haitian and three, American. She is the only full-time teacher, being sent by the U. S. Department of State on a special grant, as are myself and the Assistant Director. She also assists actively in various of the non-academic activities of the Institute. She finds Haitian students so motivated that they learn English quicker than we do French in our schools.

A view taken during the recent 10th Anniversary Exercises at the Haitian-American Institute. Mr. Cassedy as Director of the Institute is shown welcoming Dr. Jean Price-Mars, one of the founders of the Institute and one of Haiti's leading intellectuals and diplomats. Pictured in the first row of the audience at right are Haiti's President and Mrs. Paul E. Magloire flanked by two Cabinet members and Robert S. Folsom, Charge d'Affaires of the United States Embassy.

French classes are organized for Americans and other foreigners desiring to learn the official language of Haiti. Many Americans, however, particularly those working in rural areas with Point 4 or United Nations technical groups, find a knowledge of Creole more valuable than French, so Creole classes are among our projects for 1952–53. Creole is the true national language, and a large part of the population, the peasant classes, knows no French at all.

My own part in our academic program is presenting certain courses on American Civilization, including American Literature, History, Art and Architecture, and Music. Corresponding courses in Haitian civilization will be offered, each to be presented by a Haitian leader in the respective field.

Perhaps our most effective single academic project in 1952 was an intensive summer review seminar for Teachers of English, brought from all over Haiti. This seminar was cosponsored by the Haitian Department of Education and met with such success that we plan to make it an annual event.

The Institute program also includes certain important non-academic phases. One of the chief of these is the free public library of about 5,000 volumes (chiefly significant non-fiction and reference works in both English and French), with its music section of classical and popular records. Appropriately for the grave public health problems in Haiti, the medical section is particularly complete. It is the only library in Haiti from which persons may take books home.

A significant feature of the cultural life of Port-au-Prince throughout the year is the series of free public Friday evening programs held in the Institute auditorium, including lectures, concerts, exhibits and educational films. Haitians or Americans living in Haiti may be the speakers or performers, along with occasional distinguished visitors such as Marion Anderson, John Dos Passos, Herschell Brickell, and others who have appeared here in recent years.

Another non-academic aspect is the variety of informal functions, at which Haitians and Americans can mingle and get to know each other through common interests and activities such as Discussion Groups, an Art Club, Photography Club, recorded opera or symphony music, picnics, and occasional dances sponsored by the Student Association. In addition, the Institute produces a weekly radio program and, three times a [Continued on page 27]

Buildings and grounds of the Haitian-American Institute. Auditorium is in back. Mountains like the one in the background and much higher provide Haiti with spectacular scenic beauty, but constitute so much of its area (about 85%) that the arable land remaining can poorly feed its dense population.

"GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY"

(Continued from page 26)

year, publishes a magazine. The character and extent of the Institute activities is truly limited only by the interests, capabilities, and time of its staff.

The direction of the Institute is always a full-time job, often hectic, sometimes harrowing, but in the main highly satisfying. Personally, I would prefer to have more time for teaching, but that has proved impossible with the heavy administrative load. Yet the administrative work is not by any means entirely a chore. Among the truly rewarding parts of it is that of interviewing candidates for scholarships to the United States, and subsequently assisting with the selection of the successful ones.

A large part of the Director's job is public relations, including among other things, representing the Institute at a great variety of ceremonies and functions. It is still a somewhat startling experience for a school teacher to rub shoulders at receptions not only with foreign diplomats but with Cabinet Officers, Chiefs of the Military, and even President Paul Magloire himself.

The cultural life of Haiti (like its economic and political life) is centered in Port-au-Prince, with the result that Provincial existence is generally empty. I hope in the year 1952–53 to extend the work of the Institute more into the Provinces. A start has been made with a small extension library in one provincial town. Among future projects is the distribution of packets of books and pamphlets in other towns. Another project is a lecture tour in French, discussing aspects of American civilization in the larger towns.

The work of the Haitian-American Institute has now been going on for ten years. I feel these have been successful years in furthering good relations between Haiti and the United States.

MIDDLEBURY CONFERENCE

(Continued from page 2)

Much of Asia has been conquered by Communists but not by Communism, they said.

American integrity is the best commodity plan the United States can export, according to Syrian-born Princeton Professor Edward Jurji. But he questioned its use today. Professor Jurji said that the Arabs have lost faith in American integrity because United States policy strongly favors Israel over the Arab nations.

Oscar Handlin of Harvard told Conference audiences that a great disparity of sacrifice existed among the free nations. Based on national income figures, the United States is not bearing its full financial burden in the fight against Communism, according to Handlin.

President James P. Baxter of Williams College gave the keynote address opening the two-day Conference.

FRATERNITY, SORORITY REUNIONS

(Continued from page 4)

Delta Delta Delta	Sunday	3:00 p.m.
Kappa Delta	Sunday	3:00 p.m.
Kappa Kappa Gamma	Sunday	2:30 p.m.
Pi Beta Phi	Saturday	3:30 p.m.
Sigma Kappa	Saturday	3:30 p.m.

ALUMNAE LOOK AT THE COLLEGE

(Continued from page 20)

in his profession or in building a happy life, owes much of his success to many who preceded him; and that, since it is seldom possible to fulfill this obligation adequately to the older generation, it becomes his duty to do so by helping those who come after him.

With our great heritage as Middlebury Alumnae, do we not each have an enormous responsibility to do those things within our power that will be to the best advantage of the college and its students in the future?

Alumni News and Notes

1892

ADDRESS: Annah Sheldon Sturtevant, 6 Field Lane, Barrington, R. I.

1894

ADDRESS: Laura S. Clark, 532 Margaret Ct., Orlando, Fla.

1895

DEATH: Blanche A. Verder on Feb. 17 in Rutland, Vt.

1900

DEATH: Amos B. Willmarth on Dec. 8 in Burlington, Vt.

1906

DEATH: Ina Gove Paine (Mrs. Samuel W.) on Nov. 28.

1908

Dr. James L. Lovejoy has retired; address: R. F. D. 1, Rutland, Vt.

1909

MARRIAGE: Dr. Arthur W. Peach to Mrs. Camilla (Sterling) Hannum on Nov. 22 in So. Hadley, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Peach went to England on their wedding trip; address: Whately, Mass.

ADDRESSES: Gertrude Duffield Waldo (Mrs. Lewis H.) c/o F. Remick, 125 East 74th St., New York 28, N. Y. Winifred W. Fiske, Common St., Granby, Mass. John W. McCormack, 84-49 168th St., Jamaica, N. Y.

1910

ADDRESSES: Martha Meibert Miller (Mrs. Albert E.), 10211 Montgomery Ave., Kensington, Md. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Carter, Sr. (Angeline Wilcox), 43 Congress St., Greenfield, Mass.

Egbert Hadley, chairman of the Middlebury College board of trustees, has been named president of the Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturer's Institute and also chairman of the board of the Affiliated Wild Life Institute.

1911

ADDRESSES: Amerigo J. Ratti, 2606 E. 65th St., Seattle 5, Wash. Christel M. Cooledge, 120 So. Grand Ave., Los Angeles 12, Calif. Rev. Rollo A. Kilburn, Pine Brook, N. J. Dr. and Mrs. Hiram D. Moor (Lucy Willard, '12), 1409 N. Portland St., Oklahoma City, Okla.

1912

DEATH: Louise Monroe Potter (Mrs. Robert S.) on Nov. 22 in Old Greenwich, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Thomas (Margaret Sharpe, '13), Box 161, Watertown, Conn.; Arthur has retired from teaching at The Taft School.

1915

DEATH: Charles W. Proctor on Jan. 4 in Plainfield, N. J.

Rev. Elmer R. West was appointed to Northampton and Edinburg Methodist Churches which was the same charge he was appointed to thirty years ago; address: R. D., Broadalbin, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. William Hazlett Upson (Marjorie Wright) with their daughter, Polly, have been on an air tour of South America.

1916

ADDRESS: Lois Belle Hildreth (Mrs. Wm. W.), Box 264, Wolfeboro, N. H.

William W. Thomas has retired after twenty-two years as a New Rochelle elementary school principal.

1918

DEATH: Henry M. Crippen, Jr. on Dec. 8.

ADDRESSES: Arthur A. Coleman, 47 Waverly St., Framingham, Mass. Irene Adams Lambert (Mrs. Avery E.), 811 N. Linn St., Iowa City, Ia. Edward W. Earle, 37 Clifford Way, Laurence Harbor, N. J. Faith Walker Axtell (Mrs. Raymond C.), No. Calais, Vt.

Louise Reynolds has given to the Mary Fletcher Hospital in Burlington a non-sectarian chapel in memory of her parents.

1919

ADDRESS: Sylvia Pastene Foote (Mrs. Ralph), Apt. 8, Maple Grove Apts., c/o Guglin, Seneca Falls, N. Y.

Rev. Cecil Plumb is pastor of the Salem Presbyterian Church; address: Salem, N. Y.

1920

ADDRESS: Myron B. Messner, 6107 Martel, Dallas, Texas.

Maurice S. Duffield has retired; address: Williamstown, Mass. Rev. David W. Reid is retiring from the ministry at the annual session of Troy Conference to be held April 30.

1921

ADDRESS: Edward L. Moran, 134-85 St., Brooklyn 9, N. Y.

William M. Meacham, headmaster of the Farm and Trades School of Boston was honored at a testimonial dinner in appreciation for his work at the school. Tributes were also paid him in the Nov. issue of the Thompson's Island Beacon.

1922

ADDRESSES: Margaret Dickinson Gray (Mrs. Latham B.), c/o Ecuadorian Corp. Ltd., Apatado 519, Guayaquil, Ecuador, So. America. Dr. John B. Horner, 369 State St., Albany, N. Y.

1923

ADDRESSES: Sanford A. Carroll, 240 Campus Dr., Snyder 21, N. Y. Elbert T. Gallagher, Jay St., Katonah, N. Y. Ethelinda Tucker Merson (Mrs. Harry), 122 Elm Rd., Falmouth, Mass.

1925

ADDRESS: L. Corinne Newman, R. R. 5, Box 119, Gainesville, Fla.

Herbert Riegelman is marketing mgr. of the Television and Radio Div. of Gen. Elec. Co.; address: Skyline Apt. 753 James St., Syracuse, N. Y.

1926

ADDRESSES: Stewart W. Rowe, 87 Smith Ave., White Plains, N. Y. Dr. and Mrs. Lester Q. Stewart (Helen Ellsworth, '27), 108 Wood Pond Rd., W. Hartford, 10, Conn.

1927

ADDRESSES: Mr. and Mrs. William F. Fales (Barbara Crouch, '30), 2 Pierrepont St., Brooklyn 1, N. Y. Helen

Percent of Men and Women contributing by classes to the Alumni Fund as of March 16, 1953

1886–1900	22	1910	19.5	1920	13.1	1931	9.0	1942	12.9
1901	50.0	1911	38.3	1921	15.2	1932	9.6	1943	13.6
1902	33.3	1912	17.6	1922	13.2	1933	18.1	1944	13.5
1903	50.0	1913	27.0	1923	19.7	1934	13.3	1945	15.6
1904	27.7	1914	31.0	1924	17.7	1935	16.6	1946	13.8
1905	33.3	1915	21.1	1925	22.7	1936	17.6	1947	23.2
1906	40.0	1916	18.5	1926	18.9	1937	18.0	1948	20.1
1907	27.2	1917	9.1	1927	22.9	1938	14.4	1949	18.2
1908	17.2	1918	26.6	1928	19.3	1939	15.0	1950	10.6
1909	38.7	1919	24.6	1929	19.1	1940	11.8	1951	17.2
				1930	12.9	1941	19.8	1952	11.8

Whipple Glendening (Mrs. Alfred A.), 119 North St., Walton, N. Y. Miller F. Naylor, 136 W. Cliff St., Somerville, N. J.

1928

ADDRESS: Dr. and Mrs. Donald A. Ramsdell (Frances Harder, '26), 10 Berkeley Pl., Cambridge, Mass.

Marian Hinman Kemp (Mrs. Victor) conducts three television shows a week over WCAU for American Stores Co. as director of their Home Service Bureau; she recently won the TV Digest popularity poll for this type of women's program.

1929

DEATH: L. Shirley Quick Sabia (Mrs. Frank D.) on Oct. 13.

ADDRESSES: Ruth Spaulding Burgess (Mrs. Emory D.), 2454 N. Utah St., Arlington, Va. Thomas J. Cummins, 6511 Sharon Rd., Baltimore 12, Md.

1930

ADDRESSES: Ralph L. Johnson, 4405 Hamilton Ave., Country Club Estate, Jacksonville, Fla. Miriam Turner Larsen (Mrs. Bernard), 141 Parkhurst Pl., Detroit 3, Mich. Mary Kendall Metger (Mrs. George), 219 Beaver Rd., Sewickley, Pa. Comdr. John Owen, Office of Judge Advocate General of U. S. Navy, Pentagon Bldg., Washington, D. C. Harry E. Tomlinson, 6052 North 22nd St., Arlington 5, Va. Frank A. Balkus, 505 N. W. 10th St., Homestead, Fla.

1931

BIRTH: A daughter, Sarah, to Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cole.

ADDRESSES: Harriet W. Eliot, 40 Trumbull St., New Haven, Conn. Dorothy Johnson, 40 West Schiller St., Chicago, Ill. Winifred Webster Leonard (Mrs. Ralph S.), 420 Third Ave., Yuma, Ariz. Esther M. Ward, 34 Clover St., Milford, Conn. Ethel Rogers Byers (Mrs. Joseph, II), 3601 Conn. Ave., N. W., Washington 8, D. C. Mary Elizabeth Oetjen, 3008 43rd St., N. W., Washington, 16, D. C. Elizabeth Massie Rourke (Mrs. Eugene E.), 77 South St., Gorham, Me.

Philip C. Tucker is a research engineer with Bay State Abrasives; address: 148 W. Main St., Westboro, Mass. Kenneth C. Parker has become Executive Sec'y of the Taft Alumni Ass'n and will continue as Director of Public Relations at The Taft School. John J. Kelly who teaches in the Phys. Ed. Dept. at Middlebury has been promoted to the rank of associate professor.

1932

ADDRESSES: Rene Morize, c/o CIMA, Machines Agricoles McCormick-Deering, 170 Blv. de la Villette, Paris 19, France. Alberta Potter Brennen (Mrs. Frederick R.), 441 Woodland Ave., Williamsport, Pa. Elsa Smith Beardsley (Mrs. Whitmore E.). 77 Church St., Torrington, Conn.

Lester W. Eaton has resigned from his position with the Vt. Development Commission and is now a representative of Jas. Barclay & Co., Ltd.; address: 44 Colonial Dr., Montpelier, Vt.

1933

ADDRESSES: Janette Phelps Walling (Mrs. Wm.), 5621 Overlea Rd., Washington 16, D. C. James McWhirter, 2477 Edsel Dr., Trenton, Mich. Lt. Col. Ralph N. Huse, 3432 So. Utah, Arlington, Va.

1934

ADDRESSES: Rena Downing LaClair (Mrs. Robert), 80 E. Washington St., Rutland, Vt. Neil Rosbrook, R. F. D. 1, Fulton, N. Y.

Natt L. Divoll has been re-elected clerk of the Vermont Senate. Eugene Hoyt, supt. of Hartford (Vt.) schools has been granted a six-month leave of absence to complete his studies for a doctorate at Columbia.

1935

ADDRESSES: James W. Chalmers, 39 Electric Ave., Fitchburg, Mass. Ruth Stetson Kavanaugh (Mrs. Andrew J., Jr.), Bldg. 39, Apt. 6, Eastview Lane, Clifton Park Manor, Wilmington, Del. Jean Wiley Zwickel (Mrs. Abraham), 19515 Ventura Blvd., Tarzana, Calif.

Alexander Wouters, Jr. is training analyst with American Airlines in New York; address: 42-22 163rd St., Flushing 58, N. Y. Robert T. Stafford has been released from active duty with the Navy and has been appointed Deputy Attorney General of Vermont. He and his family have returned to Rutland.

1936

MARRIAGE: Barbara Binkerd Philips to Thomas C. Monahan on Nov. 22; address: 336 N. E. 28th St., Miami 37, Fla.

ADDRESS: Dorothy Rich Dollahite (Mrs. Kenneth J.) 47 Green St., Lebanon, N. H.

Howard S. Cady is now Editor-in-Chief of Little Brown & Co. in Boston; address: Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Cady (Marjory Arnold, '38), 17 Lakeview Ave., Cambridge 38, Mass.

1937

MARRIAGE: Eleanor Milligan to Paul Dormont on Oct. 17; address: 15 Fairview Ave., S. Orange, N. J.

BIRTHS: A son, Thomas Benton, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Kendall (Doris Heald) on Sept. 27. A daughter, Ellen, to Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Harrington (Harriet Spaulding) on Sept. 29.

ADDRESSES: Maxine M. Joslyn, 17 Grove St., Perry, N. Y. Erma A. Wright, 335 So. Division St., Ann Arbor, Mich. Beulah Shepard Towne (Mrs. Bruce D.) Bonnie Half Acre, Box 461, Route 1, New Market, N. J. Helen Miller Snipes (Mrs. Louis E.), 691 Penfield Rd., Rochester, N. Y. Louise Horgan Ryan, 1912 Sunderland Pl., N. W., Washington, D. C. Louise Davis Reed (Mrs. George H.), 11054 Wagner St., Culver City, Calif. Mildred L. Moore, 36 Kate Lane, Metuchen, N. J. Barbara Gregory Hopkins (Mrs. Harry K.), 726 George St., Lancaster, Pa. Marjorie Bulkeley Garwood (Mrs. Jack), 5512 Rosemont Ave., N. E., Albuquerque, N. Mex. Catherine V. B. Burchill (Mrs. Lewis R.), 15 Wigtel Lane, Bellport, N. Y. Frederick H. Smith, 1437 Robinhood Rd., Huntington Valley, Pa.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sawyer (Ruth Schaeffer, '36), 466 Tuallitan Rd., Los Angeles, Calif. Henry F. Spinney, 75 Mt. Vernon Ave., Waterbury 73, Conn. Marshall Sewell, Jr., 2318 Mountain Ave., Scotch Plains, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Neilson (Janet Howe, '36), 217 Newtown St. Road, Newtown Square, Pa. Dr. Charles H. Hamlin, 85 Jefferson St., Hartford 6, Conn. Sidney P. White, 7 Central Ave., Clinton, Conn. Conrad A. Philipson, Box 217, Lexington 73, Mass.

J. A. Fitzgerald is in the Navy; mailing address: 2 Green St., Fairhaven, Mass. Gordon E. Westby has been elected ass't vice-pres. of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston. Watson E. Wordsworth is advertising salesman for the Miami Daily News; address: 1221 N. E. 110th Terr., Miami 38, Fla.

1938

BIRTH: A daughter, Barbara Elizabeth, to Mr. and Mrs. John A. Baker (Helen Jordan) on Nov. 30.

ADDRESSES: Jennie-Belle Perry Armstrong (Mrs. Frederick), Pickwick Rd., DeWitt, N. Y. Capt. and Mrs. Raeburn B. Stiles (Carol Flascher, '39), Quarters 3702 W. S. P. Ct., Las Cruces, N. Mex. George W. Lamb, 1023 W. Broad St., Albany, Ga. Marion J. Hunt, 2835½ N. W. 13th St., Oklahoma City, Okla. Anne Sargent Clark (Mrs. Henry L., Jr.), 16 Hillcrest Pkwy., Winchester, Mass. Jean Archibald Schenck (Mrs. Martin), Loudonville, N. Y. Edward C. Hallock is president of Construction Specialties, Inc.; address: 9 Iris Rd., Summit, N. J. L. Robert Lawrence, supervisory cost accountant for Jahncke Service Inc. of New Orleans, has been appointed also to the position of Supervisor of the newly-created IBM Machines Accounting Dept. He is also studying for a Master's Degree in Business Administration at Tulane Univ. (night division); address: c/o Jahncke Service, Inc., 814 Howard Ave., New Orleans, La.

1939

MARRIAGE: Arthena Gregg to Rev. Roy M. Atwood on Jan. 3 in Middletown, Conn.; address: 8 Franklin St., Thompsonville, Conn.

BIRTH: A son, Jeffrey Van Sickles, to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cole on Jan. 20.

ADDRESSES: Paul B. Ranslow, 2265 Panocauca Terr., Los Angeles 39, Calif. George Coolidge Park, Box 212, No. Reading, Mass. A. Roger Clarke, 1030 Reynolds Arcade Bldg., Rochester 4, N. Y. Elizabeth Vaughn Myers (Mrs. Franklin W.), 45 Brook St., Wellesley 81, Mass.

Irene Fernandez is instructor in Spanish at Bethesda Chevy Chase Senior High School; address: 5004 N. 30th St., Arlington, Va. Philip C. Cary is sales manager for Mottaheoeh & Sons, wholesale importers; address: 332 West 12th St., New York, N. Y. Norman C. Smith has been appointed ass't business manager of The Loomis School.

1940

BIRTHS: A son, Mark Peter, to Rev. and Mrs. Ray H. Kiely on Dec. 4. A daughter, Elizabeth Wright, to Mr. and Mrs. William W. Hildreth, Jr. on Nov. 14. A son, Jon Christian, to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Anderson on Oct. 14. A daughter, Margaret Ann, to Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Langey (Jane Giblin, '42) on Feb. 6.

ADDRESSES: Laura Chamberlin Spaulding (Mrs. Arthur H.), 9 Grape Lane, Hicksville, N. Y. Faith Wohnus Hallock (Mrs. Wm.), R. F. D. 1, Johnson City, N. Y. Mary Lloyd Weaver (Mrs. Robert E.), 8 E. High St., Bound Brook, N. J. John M. Gale, 121 Edgar Ave., Aston Manor, R. F. D. 1, Chester, Pa.

William W. Hildreth, Jr. is studying at M. I. T.; address: 2 Ash St., Concord, Mass. Robert L. Larkin is an instructor in English at Duke Univ.; address: Westover Park Apts., Apr. E-18, Pratt St., Durham, N. C. Rev. Ray H. Kiely, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Wassau, Wis., recently received the Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service award as Wassau's outstanding young man of 1952. Ray has been an active worker in church, youth, P. T. A., service and Boy Scout groups.

1941

BIRTH: A son, Jonathan Peter, to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dziobek (Elinor Wiesing) on Sept. 27; address: Pheasant Hill Rd., Granby, Mass.

ADDRESSES: Sidney H. Thomas, Chester, Vt. Harold Hotaling, c/o Bar None Ranch, Berlin, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. John W. Holt (Helen Aronson, '36), 16 B Rye Colony, Rye, N. Y. Jessie Matthew Diffley (Mrs. Peter J.), 29 Hobson St., Springfield 9, Mass. Dorothy Smith Goldsborough (Mrs. Robert G., Jr.), Blue Mill Rd., New Vernon, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Bennett (Edith Egbert, '39), 114 Effingham Pl., Westfield, N. J. Charles D. Evans, Route 4, Anoka, Minn. Patricia McDonald, 1220 Bank St., N. W., Washington 7, D. C. Deborah Mayo Beattie (Mrs. Donald G.), Northfield Falls, Vt. Frances Cady Grauman (Mrs. Charles H.), 23 Kent St., Phoenix, N. Y. Mildred Becker, 249 Sullivan St., New York 12, N. Y.

Martha Cary Powell (Mrs. James N.) is senior organization and methods examiner with the U. S. Air Force; address: 641 Raleigh St., Denver 4, Colo. George M. Clark, Jr. has recently been elected president of Clark & Gibby, Inc. Moses G. Hubbard, III, has recently been released after two years reserve duty with the Navy and entered the law firm of Brown, Hubbard, Felt and Fuller as junior partner; address: Mr. and Mrs. Moses G. Hubbard, III (Elizabeth Wolfington), 16 Jordan Rd., New Hartford, N. Y.

1942

BIRTHS: A daughter, Patricia Louise, to Mr. and Mrs. William E. Baker (Virginia Smith) on July 31. A son, Laurence Kent, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Packard (Jane Oliphant) on Aug. 6; address: 89 Maple St., Maplewood, N. J.

ADDRESSES: Grace Illwitzer Lewis (Mrs. John L.), 18 Melbourne Rd., Norwalk, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Sabin (Barbara Wait, '44), 34 Hickory Hill Rd., Eastchester, N. Y. Dwight F. Smith, 163 Orchard St., White Plains, N. Y.

Martha E. Collins is executive ass't to the Director of Advertising of the Gray Mfg. Co.; address: 226 E. 12th St., New York 3, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Whitehouse (Nancy Hall), Wequasset Rd., Harwich Port, Mass.; Frederick is manager and photographer for the Central Cape Press. Carlos E. Richardson is a Professional Service Representative for E. R. Squibb & Sons, division of Mathieson Chem. Corp.; address: 163 Martin St., Ext., Holyoke, Mass.

1943

MARRIAGES: William J. Purcell to Eleanor Louise Lang on Dec. 27 in Sioux City, Ia. Reginald Wooldridge, Jr. to Doris M. Child on June 2, 1951.

BIRTHS: A daughter, Julie Claire, to Dr. and Mrs. Philippe W. Quellette (Denise Aubuchon) on Nov. 19. A daughter, Margaret Elwyn, to Mr. and Mrs. James Gibbs Clark (Dorothy Brown,'44) on Aug. 12. A daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen G. Wilson on Dec. 15. A son, David Kenneth, to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lent (June Archibald) on Jan. 26.

ADDRESSES: Armand Annunziata, 178 East 71st St., New York, N. Y. Mildred C. Byers, 402 Clark St., Westfield, N. J. Lt. Col. John C. Lundrigan, USMC, 736 Algonquin Rd., Des Plaines, Ill. William L. Meikle, Arch Rd., Avon, Conn. Marjorie Monroe Hobbs (Mrs. Richard M.), 205 Borden Ave., Wilmington, N. C. Paul R. Fisher, 110-20 71st Ave., Forest Hills 75, N. Y.

Reginald Wooldridge, Jr. is manager of the Utica, N. Y. Better Business Bureau; address: 1911 Noyes St., Utica, N. Y. Anne P. Anthony was chosen as an usher at the inaugural; before election Anne was an ardent worker at the Eisenhower headquarters in Washington.

1944

BIRTH: A son, George Frederick, to Mr. and Mrs. George F. Wiemann, III (Delores Balzac) on Sept. 1.

ADDRESSES: Selden G. Thomas, Box 161, Watertown, Conn. Robert E. Reuman, c/o Rev. O. G. Reuman,2 70 So. Chestnut St., Ravenna, O. M. Jane Nielsen, 1101 South St., Key West, Fla. Peter K. Hoff, Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Edgar J. Huizer, Alaska Dept. of Fisheries, Box 350, Juneau, Alaska. Shirley West Johnson (Mrs. Leight M.), 620 Paxon Hollow Rd., Newtown Square, Pa. Mary Maurice, American Embassy, A. P. O. 777, c/o P. M., New York, N. Y. Lorraine Guernsey Schrader (Mrs. Roger F.), 119 Sampson Pkwy., Pittsfield, Mass. Theodora Jay, 171 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

Miriam E. Oaks received her M. S. degree in library science last summer at Syracuse Univ. and is now librarian of the Solvay Public Library; address: 722 Woods Rd., Solvay, N. Y. Capt. Charles A. Scott was separated from USAF in Dec. after serving twenty-one months in Strategic Air Command and is now sales mgr. for Scott Shuptrine Furniture Co.; address: Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Scott (Elizabeth Carr, '46), 19243 Raymond Rd., Grosse Pointe Woods 36, Mich. Dr. Seymour J. Harris is resident physician in Pediatrics at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles; address: 1341 N. New Hampshire, Los Angeles 27, Calif. Richard J. McGarry is with Hydrocarbon Research Inc.; address: 115 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

1945

BIRTHS: A son, Prescott Charles, to Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Heald (Priscilla Hodges) on April 14, 1952. A son, Peter Michael, to Mr. and Mrs. Wassil Zabawsky (Lois Bixby) on Dec. 21. A son, Thomas James, to Mr. and Mrs. James McKinley (Nancy Richards) on Aug. 14; address: 370 The Esplanade, Hackensack, N. J. A son, Charles Michael, to Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Hassinger (Rosalind Tappan) on Dec. 16; address: 1721 37th St., N. W., Washington; D. C.

ADDRESSES: Dr. Janus C. Lindner, 255 N. Arlington Ave., E. Orange, N. J. Ruth Van Noy Buell (Mrs. John), 9580 Garfield Ave., Arlington, Calif. Erline Blackmore Burnett (Mrs. Walter W.), 41 Kingsland Terr., Burlington, Vt. Ruth Strode Carsley (Mrs. Hayward B., Jr.), 38 Houghton St., Auburn, Me. Carolyn Merrill Sinclair (Mrs. John A.), 54 Wellington St., Barre, Vt. Helen Smith Brockway (Mrs. C. Robert), 2964 W. Towers Ave., Cincinnati, O. Anna E. MacWilliams, Box 109, St. Albans, Vt. Evelyn Lester Armstrong (Mrs. John E.), 12 Point O' Woods Lane, Darien, Conn. Dr. and Mrs. David S. Palmstrom (Jane Robertson), 250 So. Prospect St., Ravenna, O. 1st Lt. Robert W. Zaumseil, Box 455, Armonk, N. Y. Janet Kemp Hoare (Mrs. Joseph), 220 Highland Terr., Woodside, Calif. Mabry Eastman Gray (Mrs. Joseph B.), 19307 Cherrywood Lane, Warrensville Heights, Cleveland 28, O. Carol Chamberlayne Kimball (Mrs. John T.), 2910 Dunbrin Rd., Dundalk 22, Md.

Martha Jeanne Conklin is administrative ass't to the personnel director of American Smelting and Refining Co. in New York. Lt. William W. Montgomery has been presented with the Bronze Star for achievement while serving with the Marines in Korea.

1946

MARRIAGE: Lucinda H. Darby to R. Neal Westmoreland on July 5.

BIRTHS: A daughter, Sandy, to Mr. and Mrs. D. Ross Brown (Vava Stafford) on Aug. 3; address: 23 Donna Lane, Syosset, N. Y. A daughter, Kristin Anne, to Mr. and Mrs. David W. Hardy (Joyce Hitchcock) on Oct. 9. A daughter, Elizabeth Champlin, to Rev. and Mrs. Avery D. Post (Margaret Rowland, '45) on Jan. 17.

ADDRESSES: Anne R. Adams, 70 Hanover Rd., Mountain Lakes, N. J. Edith Callaghan Olden (Mrs. Harold), 161 West 75th St., New York 24, N. Y. Betty Donelan Gilmore (Mrs. G. H.), 33 Dartmouth Ave., Dedham, Mass. Pamela A. Lowe, Apt. 10, 83 Marlborough St., Boston 16, Mass. Marian Armstrong, 163 Girard Ave., Hartford, Conn. Marie Scudder Goff (Mrs. John S.), 409 N. 33rd St., Billings, Mont. Elizabeth M. Branch, Thetford Acad., Thetford, Vt. Betty Jane Whitcomb Bunker (Mrs. Robert), 639 Redding Rd., Asheboro, N. C. Gloria Moore Higgins (Mrs. Patrick A.), Box 383, Clarence Center, N. Y. Joy Redfield Taylor (Mrs. Wm. T., Jr.), 1667 Glasgow Rd., Baton Rouge, La. Natalie Fox Fox (Mrs. George D.), 23 Colrain Rd., Topsfield, Mass. Lorraine Manchester Thomas (Mrs. Herbert A., Jr.), 96 Greenway Rd., Glen Rock, N. J. Marianna Dildine Compton (Mrs. M. S., Jr.), c/o Major M. S. Compton, Jr., Wing Comptroller's Office, Lackland A. F. B., San Antonio, Texas. Mary Selleck Hellekjaer (Mrs. Per), 3311 Martha Custis Dr., Alexandria, Va. Peter Funck, 10 Rue la Bruyere, Paris 9, France. Elizabeth L. Hurd, 312 West 82nd St., Apt. 2, New York, 24, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Guglin (Janice Foote, '50), Apt. 8, Maple Grove Apts., Seneca Falls, N. Y.

1947

MARRIAGES: Wilbur F. Weeks to Margaret M. White of Edinburgh, Scotland, on Dec. 30, 1950 in Salzburg, Austria. Catherine Pomeroy to William C. Blair on Oct. 18; address: 2248 Woodmere Dr., Cleveland Heights 6, O. Valerie C. Williams to Jack W. Burkig on June 14; address: 261 Mabery Rd., Santa Monica, Calif.; Valerie is a student at U. C. L. A. Rosemary Roddy to Robert Northrup Brainard on Aug. 25; address: Barnes Dr., Adamston, N. J. Marion Berresse to Lt. John P. Landolt on Jan. 24 in White Plains, N. Y.; address: 557 Park Ave., Hershey, Pa.

BIRTHS: A son, Peter Carl, to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lindblad (Jean Taggart) on Oct. 16; address: 38 Wolverine St., Oakwood Heights, Staten Island 6, N. Y. A daughter, Cynthia June, to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson A. Britten (Barbara Verdicchio) on June 22. Sons, Donald Lewis, on Nov. 26, 1951 and David Arnold, on Nov. 7, 1952 to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mozes (Betty Virtue); address: Sunnyfield Lane, R. F. D. 1, Scotch Plains, N. J.

ADDRESSES: Elinor Carr Pauli (Mrs. Richard S.), 19 Westmoreland Rd., Hingham, Mass. Janet Rogers, 2700 Fairview Ave., North, Seattle 2, Wash. Jeannette Cunningham Kidd (Mrs. Arthur H.), 3380 Brunswick Ave., Minneapolis 16, Minn. Mr. and Mrs. George H. Booth (Joanne Buckeridge), 305 Riverside Dr., New York, N. Y. Johnstone R. Law, 226 South 16th St., Philadelphia, Pa. Gordon E. Mathews, 2511 Mountain Ave., Scotch Plains, N. J. Dorothy Decanizares Heinrichs (Mrs. Charles E.), 4405 Dale Ave., Tampa, Fla. Phyllis Howland Baptie (Mrs. Thomas), 76 Tolman St., W. Newton 65, Mass. Phyllis Hackley Foote (Mrs. Harrison D.), 285 Central St., W. Acton, Mass.

Inger Kolle Dunn (Mrs. Leland M.), Apt. 702, Northwestern Apts., 1725 Orrington Ave., Evanston, Ill.; Inger's husband is taking special courses at Northwestern Univ. Martha Harvey Gassan (Mrs. Arnold) is medical technologist at the Presbyterian Hospital in Denver; address: 2176 S. Washington St., Denver 10, Colo. Eric O. Bunzel is ass't mgr. in the Steel Dept. of Omni Products, Inc. James B. Brucks is Vice-Pres. and Gen'l Sales Mgr. of Merlite Industries. Frederick R. Goodrige is Ass't Budget Director for Union Bag & Paper Corp. and is also attending N. Y. U. Law School. Carl Parkinson is a staff adjuster for General Motors. Jacob A. Samenfink has a fellowship in marriage counseling at Merrill-Palmer School in Detroit, Mich. Charles T. Meilleur is cost control analyst with Sperry Gyroscope Co.

1948

MARRIAGES: Mildred Greis to Harry Lee on Nov. 5, 1951; address: 9 Owen St., Hartford, Conn. Catherine Handy to Hans Engelmann on Dec. 20 in Cataumet, Mass.; address: Peekskill Military Acad., Peekskill, N. Y. Eleanore Herchet to Wm. C. Regenthal on Apr. 18, 1952 in Elizabeth, N. J.; address: 494 Markthaler Pl., Roselle Park, N. J. Mary Forbes to Wm. M. Hawkins on July 26; address: 116 Maple Ave., Troy, N. Y. Fred B. Storfer to Barbara Heywood of Portland, Ore. on Dec. 30. Scott T. Pike to Mary Elizabeth Brackett on Nov. 25; address: 802 6th St., S. E., Minneapolis, Minn.; Scott is working for an M. A. in American Studies at the Univ. of Minn. Isabel Myers to James A. Hughes, Jr. on Jan. 17; address: 41 E. Gowan Ave., Mt. Airy, Philadelphia 19, Pa. Addison Merrick to Helen Ellis on June 7, 1952; address: 2601 W. Montlake Pl., Seattle 2, Wash.

BIRTHS: A son, Daniel Collins, to Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Taylor (Adele Stemmler) on Aug. 26; address: School St., Woodbury, Conn. A daughter, Margot Beth, to Mr. and Mrs. John Kempers (Anne Grimshaw) on May 10, 1952. Anne also has a son, Peter Jan, born Apr. 8, 1951; address: 53 Evangeline St., Rochester 11, N. Y. A daughter, Paula Elizabeth, to Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Welles (Elizabeth Holmgren) on Jan. 23. A daughter, Mary C. to Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dineen on May 23; address: 141 Monrovia St., Springfield, Mass. A son, Gary Earle, to Mr. and Mrs. Evan B. Littlefield (Sarah Peck) on Nov. 25; address: R. D. 1, Goshen, N. Y. A daughter, Ellen Lee, to Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Cremer (Rebecca Fraser, '46) on Dec. 16.

ADDRESSES: Ann McKenney Broughall (Mrs. Wm. T.), 7337 East Young St., Tulsa, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Powell, Jr. (Nancy Richardson), Dixiedale Farm, Chatham, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Turner (Patricia Prendergast), 90 Schenck Ave., Great Neck, N. Y. Robert A. Fuller, 2307 Franklin Ave., Secane, Pa. Joan Biggs Bishow (Mrs. Burton J.), 3644 West 59th St., Los Angeles 43, Calif. Nancy Breed Campbell (Mrs. Donald A.), 12 Seymour St., Middlebury, Vt. Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Ness (Elizabeth Bredenberg), 398 Maple Rd., Longmeadow, Mass. H. Bruce Stahl, 4201 Yoakum Blvd., Houston, Texas. Frederick B. Johnston, 30 Church St., Nassau, N. Y. Teresa Potter, 302 W. 12th St., New York, N. Y. Shirley Syrett Morris (Mrs. E. Jackson), 430 N. E. 38th St., Miami, Fla. Ann Johnson Johnson (Mrs. Warren E.), c/o Bureau of Public Roads, P. O. Bldg., Augusta, Me. Eugene H. Miller, 6 Valley Rd., Concord, Mass. Helen Hicks Coulter (Mrs. Charles P., III), 211 Vernon Pl., Brigantine, N. J. Jean C. Webster, 514 Bennington Dr., Rochester 16, N. Y. Marcia Jordan, 1125 Crescent Heights Blvd., Hollywood 46, Calif. Ronald Butterfield, 14 Cushman St., Plymouth, Mass. Joseph P. Hall, Jr., 13 Pierce Rd., Watertown, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Kellogg (Marya Steele), 56 Terrace, Katonah, N. Y. Francis I. Nash, Weiss Hall, Linsly Military Institute, Wheeling, W. Va. Merritt B. Neil, 100 Fairfield St., St. Albans, Vt. Robert E. Outman, Jr., 13 Williams St., Essex Junction, Vt. Stewart Washburn, 8 Vilone Rd., Elsmere, Wilmington, Del. Mary S. Harper, 64 E. Stratford Ave., Lansdowne, Pa. Barbara Vehling Bowles (Mrs. Francis P.), c/o Greer School, Millbrook, N. Y.

Mildred Greis Lee (Mrs. Harry) is a personal shopper for G. Fox & Co. Eleanore Herchett Regenthal is employed in the Syndicate Dept. of Shields & Co., investment bankers. Fred Johnston is a sales representative for Proctor and Gamble. Bert R. Haas is a financial analyst with the Southern Pacific Co. in New York. Arthur Goodrich is interning in pediatrics in Baltimore City Hospital. Herbert P. Mayer received his Bachelor's degree in Architecture from Univ. of Penn. in June 1952; he is now a draftsman with James M. Hunt, Architect; address: 1723 15th St., Boulder, Colo. Charles W. Muller is an economist with the Dept. of State; address: 2010 P. St., N. W., Washington, D. C. David M. Otis is an automobile salesman with C. P. Smith, Jr. of Burlington; address: 62 Wells St., Burlington, Vt. Sanders D. Rosenberg received his Ph. D. in Chemistry from Iowa State Univ. and is now on a post-doctorate fellowship at Harvard; address: 850 Mass. Ave., Cambridge 39, Mass. D. Jerald Hall is a clerk in the Power Service Dept. of Salt River Valley Power District Offices; address: 1134 E. Jefferson, Apt. 5, Phoenix, Ariz. Richard Buonerba is Chief Announcer for station W. N. L. K. in Norwalk, Conn. Robert Hoaglund is a Claims Adjuster with the Royal Liverpool Group Ins. Co. Thomas Lyall is a factory mgr. for the Horton Chocolate Co. in Newark; address: 342 Suzon Ct., W. Orange, N. J. Walter Nelson is teaching history and coaching basketball at Kew Forest School in Forest Hills, N. Y. Robert L. Stevenson is a patent law clerk at Fellows Gear Shaper Co. of Springfield, Vt.; address: S. Main St., Charlestown, N. H. Ronald Maxwell-Willeson is an editor with Allyn & Bacon, Inc. of Boston. Addison Merrick is working at the Univ. of Washington on his teaching certificate. Sally Fisher is a psychometrist with the Lansing Board of Educ.; address: 208 W. Jefferson, Lansing, Mich.

1949

ENGAGEMENT: Rachel Stryker to Dwight Chichester Smith, Jr.

MARRIAGES: Jo Anne Elliott to C. P. Pillsbury on Feb. 16, 1952; address: 253 Winter St., Whitman, Mass. June Smith to Donald C. Mylin on March 23, 1951; address: 506 D West Court Rd., Chesapeake Gardens, Aberdeen, Md.

BIRTHS: A daughter, Jennifer Lynne, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris on Nov. 29. A daughter, Jeannette Elizabeth, to Mr. and Mrs. John D. Mills (Patricia Schryuer) on Dec. 22. A daughter, Ruel, to Mr. and Mrs. Burton R. Corcoran (Barbara Baker, '50) on Oct. 7. A son, David Rittenhouse, to Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hunt (Rosalie Rittenhouse, '48) on Nov. 1; address: 320 Church St., Danville, Pa.; John is Personnel Mgr. of the Danville Plant of Thompson Products. A daughter, Beverlee Ann, to Mr. and Mrs. James E. Sullivan (Jane Miller) on Aug. 21; address: 230 Shelburne Rd., Burlington, Vt. A son, Peter Allen, to Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Stillman (Marion Durkee, '47) on Apr. 9, 1952. A son, John Porter, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Whittier on Nov. 15; Robert has been recalled to active duty in the navy; address: So. Hamilton, Mass.

ADDRESSES: Phyllis J. Hatch, 28 Three River Rd., N. Wilbraham, Mass. David Washburn, Socony Vacuum Oil Co., DeKar, Senegal, French West Africa. Woodford M. Garrigus, Clark Univ., Worcester 3, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Wendel H. Agne (Doris Smith, '46), 54 Rhode Island Ave., N. E., Washington 2, D. C. Priscilla Noyes Crosson (Mrs. C. J.), 3830 Valley Ridge Rd., Dallas, Texas. Dixon F. Hemphill, 73 Puritan Rd., Swampscott, Mass. Anthony V. Fraioli, 1249A Woodbine St., Bethlehem, Pa. Mary Hosford Bailey (Mrs. Robert L.), 19509 Wickfield St., Warransville Heights 22, O. Lt. (j. g.) Mary C. Fisher, 4201 Mass. Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bates (Lulubel Newton), Worthington Ridge, c/o Hanes, Berlin, Conn. E. Leighton Hutchinson, Kraure Pl., Leatherwood Lane, Wheeling, W. Va. Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Hunt (Therese Racette), 1 Franklin St., Middlebury, Vt. Richard H. MacNamara, 172 Main St., Wenham, Mass. Harriet Miller Correll (Mrs. Alan S.), c/o Resident Engineer's Office, Esso Petroleum Co., Ltd., Fawley Hants, England. Marilyn MacKenzie Tichy (Mrs. Bernard), 55 Prince Lane, Westbury, L. I., N. Y. Joan Kenyon Schroeder (Mrs. Kenneth W.), 97 Dauntless Lane, Hartford 5, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel T. Hedden (Delphine Marden, '47), 46 Spring St., Glastonbury, Conn. Jane D. Baker, 5 Palmer Rd., Marblehead, Mass. John W. Rumbold, 911 Michigan Ave., Wilmette, Ill. Cornelia Higley Seidel (Mrs. Robert), 619 Hemlock Dr., Euclid 23, O.

Mary E. Raine is a show selector for N. B. C. television; address: 25 East 10th St., New York, N. Y. Frank C. Colcord is in the Office of the Director for Mutual Security, Executive Office of the President, U. S. Government. He recently made an extensive tour, as assistant to the Chief of Staff in his office, to survey the progress of the Mutual Security Program; address: 1304 36th St., N. W., Washington, D. C. John W. Secord is with the Liberty Mutual Ins. Co.; address: 68 Bourne St., Auburndale 66, Mass. Sebastian S. Cocola is ass't office mgr. of the Goodyear Service Store in Bridgeport, Conn.; address: 98 Chestnut St., Hartford, Conn. Robert D. Brown is ass't to a Planning Consultant in Rye, N. Y.; address: 8 Bronson Ave., Larchmont, N. Y. Conrad F. Metcalfe is a retail salesman for the Scott Paper Co.; address: The Breakers, Apt. 74, 285 Lynn Shore Dr., Lynn, Mass.

1950

MARRIAGES: Hedwig H. Tafelmaier to Egon Stark on Nov. 15; address: 54-D Wabend Ave., Springfield, N. J. Thomas P. Turnbull to Martha Sue Cooke, '48 on Jan. 3 in Kansas City, Mo.; address: Mgr. American Express Co., Heidelburg, Germany, A. P. O. 403, New York, N. Y. Joan Hallett to Thomas G. Evans on Feb. 16, 1952; address: 57 Chesterfield Dr., Rochester 12, N. Y. Charles L. Cole to Nancy M. Chester on Jan. 3 in Milwaukee, Wis.; address: 7 East 93rd St., New York, N. Y. Donald S. Zaumseil to Dorothy Jean Mravunac on Feb. 7 in Stamford, Conn.; address: Gen'l Delivery, Monticello, N. Y.

BIRTHS: A son, Graeme Paul, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frelick (Brenda Bullock) in July 1952; address: 116 D Lexington St., The Anchorage, Middletown, R. I. A son, David Lee, Jr., to Mr. and Mrs. David Arnold (Jean Simmons), on Oct. 27 in Berlin, Germany; address: 3rd District OSI, A. P. O. 742, New York, N. Y.

ADDRESSES: Margaret Gordon Raines (Mrs. Robert A.), 10 St. Ronan Terr., New Haven, Conn. Curtis Cushman, Syosset, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Wilson (Charlotte Davis, '47), 7 Palmyra St., Springfield, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Rickson (Bonny Morse, '47), 1202 N. Berkley St., Urbana, Ill. Stephanie B. Griffin, 118 Oakland Terr., Hartford 12, Conn. Robert C. Hope, Hotel Putnam, Bennington, Vt. John F. Haven, Apt. 37, Fernwood Park, Rochester, N. Y. Carlton E. Anderson, 130 Sixth Ave., Troy, N. Y. Ross C. Cowan, 800 West End Ave., New York 25, N. Y. Frank J. Toia, 9 Robert Court, W. Orange, N. J. William A. Stumpf, 15 Park St., Lee, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Bates (Helen Guernsey, '51), c/o Dr. Joseph Belser, E. Greenbush, N. Y. Evelyn Brite Janaro (Mrs. Richard P.), 114 Menores Ave., Coral Gables, Fla. Francis P. McNamee, 300 Northern Blvd., Albany, N. Y. Doris W. Gould, 449 Beacon St., Boston, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Miller (Jo Anne Faucher, '51), 136 Truman Boyd Manor, Long Beach 10, Calif. Betty

Cappers Wilson (Mrs. Robert D.), 7621 Lankford Ave., Norfolk, Va. Anna Sherwood, 223 East 82nd St., New York 28, N. Y. Jean Kirsch, 1600 16th St., N. W. Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Linwood L. Meacham (Ann Mudge, '51), 9 Talbot Rd., Hingham, Mass. Harry M. Fife, Jr., 1195 So. Fairfax St., Denver, Colo. Barbara R. Portsch, Cherry St., Katonah, N. Y. Hazel M. Savary, 6433 So. Harvard St., Chicago, Ill. Donald G. Hultgren, 1618 Canterbury Rd., St. Petersburg, Fla.

Edward B. Furber is in the army; address: So. Deerfield, N. H. Thomas M. Divoll is a teacher and basketball coach in Littleton High School; address: Littleton, Mass. Philip Wayland Porter is in the army; address: 449th SIRA team, Ft. McNair, Washington 25, D. C. Corwin S. Elwell is serving his internship under Woodbury Brackett, City Mgr. of Concord, N. H.; address: 80 Shawnut St., R. F. D. 6, Concord, N. H. James F. Newman has been released from the Army; address: Mr. and Mrs. James F. Newman (Elizabeth Huey, '51), 313 Dickinson Ave., Swarthmore, Pa. John H. Burleigh, Jr. is a student at Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration; address: 15 Lincoln St., Exeter, N. H. Andrew H. Pepin has been appointed as a municipal judge by Gov. Emerson; he is the youngest of the municipal judges. Alan W. Furber, Jr. has a position with Charles Scribner Co.; address: 11 Bank St., New York 14, N. Y. John P. O'Connor is now out of service and returned to his position as salesman with the Scott Paper Co. James E. McKenzie, Jr. is still in the Air Force and at present is assigned to the Office of Special Investigations; address: 4105 Edmunds St., N. W., Washington, D. C. Lt. Bradford W. Ingalls has been transferred to the naval base at Norfolk where his family has joined him; address: 1855 East Ocean View Ave., Apt. 1, Norfolk, Va.

1951

MARRIAGES: Delight Mocas to David Tillotson, Jr. on Dec. 13 in Nashua, N. H.; address: Apt. 1, 5079 Bradley Blvd., Bethesda 14, Md. Margaret S. Packard to Robert H. Ramsey on Aug. 16; address: 1202 Guthrie Circle, Atchison, Kan. Ensign Philip S. Dyett to Patricia Ardya on Sept. 27 in Washington, D. C.; address: USNR 551176, Squad VF 837, F. P. O., San Francisco, Calif. Donald H. MacLean to Priscilla Ann Wood, '50 on Jan. 24 in Westwood, N. J.; address: 22 W. Wyoming Ave., Apt. 27, Melrose, Mass. William J. Tracy to Sylvia Ann Whitely on Feb. 7 in Jordan, N. Y.; address: 105 High St., Bristol, Conn.

BIRTH: A daughter, Heather Ann, to Mr. and Mrs. Cameron M. Baird (Ann Graham, '51) on June 15.

ADDRESSES: Frank J. Nicholson, 9513 Stratford Dr., Oklahoma City, Okla. Hubert W. Williams, 55 Lexington St., New Britain, Conn. Robert M. Dibble, Conn. Jr. Republic, Litchfield, Conn. Marjorie Mering Sherman (Mrs. Frank W.), 1506 So. Covell Ave., Sioux Falls, S. D. Pvt. William A.McIlwain, US 52180686, HQ Btry. I Corps Arty. A. P. O. 358, c/o P. M., San Francisco, Calif. Charles F. Hoffman, 258 Broadway, New York 7, N. Y. 2nd Lt. Eber L. Taylor, A02220364, Cheli Specialized A. F. Depot, Box 310, Maywood, Calif. Dorothy Anne Gilligan, 197 Commonwealth Ave., Apt. 7, Boston, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Donald LeLong (Jacqueline Willaredt, '52), 21 Potter Pl., Scarsdale, N. Y. Mr. and Mr. Robert Bowman (Lynne Rask), 289 W. West, Cambridge 39, Mass. Edward B. Furber, So. Deerfield, N. H. Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Christiansen (Patricia Ray), 10 Marshall Way, Rumford, R. I. James P. Donnelly, 32-52 81st St., Jackson Heights, N. Y. Sgt. Noel K. Sheldon, R. A. 33538494, Btry, A 937th F. A. Bn., A. P. O. 301, c/o P. M., San Francisco, Calif. William J. McNamara, 11 Rockwood St., Medford, Mass. Curtis B. Norris, 29 Ramapo Rd., Ossining, N. Y. Julia Hatton Ellis, 46 Concord Ave., Cambridge, Mass. Joan Hunter Kent (Mrs. Peter), 706 D West Canterbury Rd., St. Louis 24, Mo. Eleanor Stutz Kirlin (Mrs. Wm. H.), 3 Monroe Pl., Apt. 7, Brooklyn 1, N. Y.

Henry C. Gross is ass't editor of Goodman Publications; address: 422 E. 85th St., New York, N. Y. Harry K. Welsh is expeditor for Bridgeport Lycoming Div. of Avco Corp.; address: Valley Rd., Westport, Conn. Paul R. Andrews has accepted a position with the Vt. Development Commission; address: 219 Washington St., Barre, Vt. Gretchen Storer is a teacher at the Kent School in Denver; address: 2900 E. Cedar St., Denver, Colo. James D. Ross has recently received his ensign's commission at Newport, R. I. John E. Mulcahy is teaching and coaching in Mecca High School, Cortland, O.; address: 2111 Woodland, N. E., Warren, O. Ann Graham Baird and Cameron M. Baird, M. A. 51, 14 Summit Ave., N. Scituate, Mass.; Cameron is now technical sales mgr. at Baird and McGure, Inc. in Holbrook, Mass. Philip A. Clarke, who has been awarded a fellowship by Rotary International for advanced study abroad in 1953–54 will study in the British Isles. Air Cadet William B. Butler after completing six months of training had a scholastic rating of seventh in his class. He is now taking advanced training at Ellington Field in Houston, Texas. Caroline C. Wheeler is an insurance underwriter with Johnson & Adams in Washington; address: Apt. 626 East, Hunting Towers, Alexandria, Va. Mary Krum Dale (Mrs. David) is sec'y to the Director of Junior Red Cross; address: 29 High St., Springfield, Mass.

1952

ENGAGEMENT: Bob Morgan to Cinnie Feindel, '54.

MARRIAGES: Anne G. Nichols to Charles H. Heinig on Aug. 16; address: 225 Greenwood Pl., Syracuse, N. Y.; Anne is a computor for the Carrier Corp. Charlotte Olsen to 2nd Lt. John M. McIntyre on Dec. 13 in Hanover, N. H.; address: 15 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass. Lynn Pahner to Philip Christie on Sept. 13 in Glendale, Calif.; address: c/o Lt. Philip A. Christie, 01931400, Btry. C, 272 F. A. Bn., A. P. O., c/o P. M., New York, N. Y. Patricia A. Sullivan to Alan Korest on May 25, 1952; address: Rt. 1, Box 333, Hickory Corners, Mich. 2nd Lt. Fred L. Lake, III to Marylou Young on Dec. 20 in Providence, R. I.; address: 807 East, Hunting Towers, Alexandria, Va. Robert S. Bruns, III to Barbara H. Baker, '54, on Feb. 1, in New York City. Martha K. Peck to Newton A. Burgess, Jr. on Jan. 31 in White Plains, N. Y.; address: c/o F. C. Reed, Llewllyn Pk., W. Orange, N. J. Lorraine Ward to Charles J. McCloughan, Jr. on Nov. 15; address: Swarthmore, Pa. Cynthia Campbell to Sylvester Byrne of Dublin, Ireland on Dec. 27; address: 1512 N. Dearborn, Chicago, Ill. Mary G. Muessel to Lewis L. Pulling on Sept. 18; address: Bldg. 9, Apt. 4, Rossade Dr., W. Lafayette, Ind. Suzanne B. Clark to Lt. (j. g.) Harry G. Smith, Jr. on June 14; address:

R. D., Yardley, Pa. Anne Cleary to James M. Servnish in Aug. 1950; address: 24760 Rensselaer, Oak Park 37, Mich. Gretchen Schupp to Daniel W. Toshach in Aug. 1950; address: 213 Diamond St., New Haven, Conn. Joseph H. Miller to Barbara Jean Duffy on Jan. 31 in Tarrytown, N. Y. Cynthia Fuguet to David B. Shurtleff on June 18; address: 35 Myrtle St., Boston, Mass. Mary Forbes to Wm. M. Hawkins on July 26; address: 116 Maple Ave., Troy, N. Y. Joan Benedict to John P. Brady on July 19; address: 14 Worcester Sq., Boston, Mass. Barbara Riley to Robert G. Moore; address: 63 Washburn Ave., Portland, Me. Elizabeth L. Schimmat to Craig Andrews on June 16, 1951; address: 263–38 73rd Ave., Glen Oaks, Floral Park, N. Y. Kay E. Newth to Ensign James Henry Readio, 3rd, on Feb. 7 in Barrington, R. I. Peter B. Flickinger to Margarita Sanjurjo of Madrid on Feb. 6 in New York City.

BIRTHS: A daughter, Kathleen Marie, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duclos on Jan. 28. A son, John Cleary, to Mr. and Mrs. James M. Servnish (Anne Cleary) in Sept. 1951. A daughter, Charlotte Lynn, to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Toshach (Gretchen Schupp) on Sept. 5.

ADDRESSES: Ernest H. Anderson, Jr., A. F. 11 206 180, H. Q. 6910th Scty. 9P, A. P. O. 633, New York, N. Y. Jacqueline A. Johnson, 15 Lancaster St., Cambridge, Mass. 2nd Lt. Talman C. Budd, II, USMC, A. C. O. C. 9, Stu. Off. Co., Stu. Regt., Armoured School, Fort Knox, Ky. Navcad. Brian W. Smith, USNR 231 #533, Corry Field, Pensacola, Fla. Martha Rupp Cooke (Mrs. James H.), 116 Crosman Hall, Boulder, Colo. Richard G. Smith, Box 295, No. Conway, N. H. Margaret A. Nasmith, 920 So. Taylor St., Arlington, Va. James G. Olson, 421 North Ave., Waukegan, Ill. Bernie L. Twitchell, 137 Yale St., Springfield, Mass. Frederick D. Larson, 37 N. Pleasant St., Oberlin, O. Lorna Bowlby, 129 Marlboro, St., Boston, Mass. Anne S. Brosius, 387 Commonwealth Ave., Boston 15, Mass. Amelia Rogers Donnan (Mrs. David H.), Ardon Farm, Boxford, Mass. Elizabeth Dillingham Kress (Mrs. Donald), 947 Darby Rd., Ithaca, N. Y. Jane Barker Lesh (Mrs. Frederick), 9 Nanset Rd., N. Weymouth, Mass. Sharon J. Locke, 16 Tyler St., Brattleboro, Vt. Nancy J. McAllaster, 129 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass. Barbara J. Osborne, 10 Putney Rd., Brattleboro, Vt. Jeanne C. Parker, 42 Pine St., Exeter, N. H. Mary Ann Webb, Scotts Hotel, Washington, D. C. Janet M. West, 312 W. 83rd St., New York 24, N. Y.

Jeanne Koelsch is a graduate student at Harvard. Lucile Lee is a student at Katharine Gibbs in New York City. Jacqueline Logan is a family social worker for the City Missionary Society of Boston, Mass. Barbara Oetjen is doing graduate work in Educ. at Harvard. Elizabeth Parker is a graduate ass't in general chemistry at Stanford Univ., Stanford, Calif. Ruth Shonyo is studying at Katharine Gibbs in Boston. Alan M. Gussow is a student in architecture at Cooper Union; address: 418 E. 9th St., New York 9, N. Y. Paula M. Loughran is attending Katharine Gibbs School in New York. Suzanne W. Goyne is a statistical tabulator in the Special Jobs Dept. of Daniel Starch & Staff of Mamaroneck, N. Y. Ronald P. Prinn has been assigned to Battery A. of the 34th F. A. Bn. of the 9th Inf. Div. at Fort Dix, N. J. for eight weeks of basic training. 2nd Lt. Betty Bates has completed basic training at Medical Field Service School at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. where she will train in physical therapy; address: M2963, PT Class 7, Box 2, Medical Field Service School, Brook Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex. W. Merle Smith, Jr. is a salesman for Fantashere, Inc. Robert S. Bruns is an ensign in the U. S. Navy. Richard N. MacNair is in the Army; address: 177 Hancock St., Cambridge, Mass. Elizabeth Loemker is in the management training program at Radcliffe College; address: 69 Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass. Marian B. Olds and Polly Norton are doing graduate work in Education at Harvard; address: 1746 Cambridge St., Cambridge, Mass. Nancy Berquist is on the Promotion Staff of the Syracuse China Co.; address: 104 Walnut Pl., Syracuse, N. Y. Margaret A. Lewis is with the State Dept. in Athens, Greece; address: J. A. S. Personnel, A. P. O. 206, c/o P. M., New York, N. Y. Martha J. Potter is teaching English in the American Acad. for Girls in Istanbul; address: American Acad. for Girls, Uskudar, Istanbul, Turkey. Joyce Rohr is with the American Friends Service in Mexico City; address: 314 Hospital Center, First Army, 7 Park Ave., New York 16, N. Y. Dorothy C. Smith is in government work; address: 2230 Mass. Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C. Martha Turner Ogden (Mrs. Robert F., Jr.), is in the Admissions Office at Johns Hopkins; address: 2502 Roslyn Ave., Baltimore 16, Md. Judith Webster Barton (Mrs. Philip) is receptionist in the Personnel Dept. of the First Nat'l Bank of Boston. Robert R. Bishop, Jr. is in training at Fort Knox, Ky. Robert N. Bates is a Socony trainee in Rutland. Capt. C. W. Archibald is in the USAF in Alberquerque, N. M. Donald B. Elwell is in Korea. George Gleason is at Columbia Law School. Charles Majer is in the Navy. Harry McGee is a supervising ass't with the N. E. Tel. & Tel. in Boston; address: c/o The Boston Club, 46 Beacon St., Boston, Mass. David A. Page is at Yale Medical School. Donald E. Rowe is working for his Master's Degree in Physical Educ. at B. U. Barrie Storrs is in the Army. James MacTiernan and Franics O. Thibodeau re-entered college in Feb. Mary Muessel Pulling (Mrs. Lewis L.) is working at Purdue Musical Organizations at the Univ. Anne Nichols Heinig (Mrs. Charles F.) is working for Carrier Air Conditioning in the engineering research dept. Ann McAdow is studying at Ecole Phonetique; address: 31 Rue Bonaparte, Paris VI, France. Barbara Bieber is working for the East Coast Aeronautics in Mt. Vernon, N. Y. doing auditing, accounting and expediting. Carol Crane is a private sec'y for General Chemical Div. Audrey Frank is director of Women and Girls for the W. Springfield Y. M. C. A. Judith Hudders is a customer's representative for N. Y. Tel. Co. Virginia Merritt is an undergrad at the Univ. of Penn. Ruth Parry Cran (Mrs. John) is an analytical chemist for American Cyanamide Co. J. Elizabeth Mitchel is a receptionist and sec'y for Polaroid Corp. Jeanne Rice is Field Director for the Niagara Falls Girl Scouts. Mary Lou Thayer is a reporter with the Curtis Publishing Co. Carol Holmes is personnel ass't at Breck's in Boston. Carol Annable is working for the Equitable Life Assurance Society. Joan Benedict Brady (Mrs. John P.) is a recreational therapist at Boston State Hospital while her husband is in B. U. School of Medicine. Mary Jean Burr is working for Arthur D. Little, Inc. in Boston; address: 15 Lancaster St., Cambridge 40, Mass. Knight Washburn is employed by Benton and Bowles Advertising Agency in New York City. Douglas P. Webb is in the service, stationed at Indiantown Gap.

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE PLATES

by WEDGWOOD - Twelve Scenes

HEPBURN HALL	MEMORIAL FIELD HOUSE	MUNROE HALL	BREAD LOAF
FOREST HALL	PEARSONS HALL	STARR LIBRARY	OLD CHAPEL
PAINTER HALL	LE CHATEAU	GIFFORD HALL	MEAD CHAPEL

The official plates of Middlebury College are considered among the most beautiful of all Commemorative Plates.

$28.00 set of twelve, $15.00 for a half dozen, less than six $2.75 each. Postpaid

A Gift of beauty and utility

ANNIVERSARY • GRADUATION • PRESENTATION • WEDDING

Available in Blue only

Make checks payable to the Treasurer, Middlebury College and send with orders to:

THE NEWS LETTER
Old Chapel 21

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE MIDDLEBURY, VERMONT